Old Globe store will be vacant no more

Dollar General Store to bring variety to Antioch's downtown

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Dollar General Corp. will open its Antioch store, Sept. 18, in the long-vacant Globe Department Store location, at Orchard Street and Hillside Avenue.

Dollar General Stores sell consumable basics and have been described as Wal-Marts in 8,000 square feet.

The store opening is a sign of the corporation's continuing enormous growth and expansion and of the sustained effort of the village economic development program to keep Antioch's economy growing.

Dollar General will start the process to hire approximately one dozen people on Friday, Aug. 29.

Dollar General Corp. was founded in 1946 and has approximately 3000 stores in 24 states. "We have opened in excess of 280 stores this year," said District Manager Bill Russell. "We're moving into the northern Illinois area."

Dollar General stores are now located in Zion, McHenry, and Round Lake. Along with the new Antioch store opening are two other store openings in Mundelein and Prospect Heights. Round Lake will soon have a second store and Grayslake will have a store.

"We're primarily a small town operation," Russell said. "We want to be in a town where people appreciate us being there. We feel there is a market segment that needs quality merchandise at an affordable price."

Russell said, "We're looking forward to coming in to Antioch."

"I'm elated with this," said Antioch Community Development Director Claude LeMere.

"They are going to replace many many of the items that the Ben Franklin used to carry. Ben Franklin has now gone into home accents, crafts, and is doing a stupendous job at that. The market has changed and the need is here for those types of items that they used to carry," said LeMere.

Bill Russell explains that the store is a general merchandise store that

Antioch displays its antique attitude

Stores don't compete, but unite to attract shoppers to area

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff reporter

Antioch's antique attitude has emerged from several years of development to become a major reason for people to visit the area and leave their money behind. It is an attitude that several local business people have encouraged, and they are working together to make it work.

If people do not want to visit in person, they can now go to the Internet and call up Antioch antiques on the screens in their homes. The antiques on Main Street are being sold on the world wide web.

Dan Hacke of Another Man's Treasures said that the dealers have created a destination shopping area in Antioch. "When people want to go antique shopping, they don't want to go to just one store. They want to see others."

Shelly Auble, owner with Jim Auble of Williams Bros. Emporium, said, "It's a very good thing to have a lot of antique shops in one area." She said, "We're hoping to attract people as a collection of antique dealers."

The most public evidence of their cooperative and team building spirit of antique selling is a card that lists several area stores and shows how to reach them on a map.

Diane Calabrese, co-owner with Janet Iler of Green Bench Antiques, said she and Iler knew Brenda Case of Park Avenue Antiques and shopped in her place. "When we came in (to start our store), we felt it was better for us all to be on the same brochure. It just works better for people to come to town and see more than one antique shop."

Possibly the key person for much of what is evolving in antique Antioch is Brenda Case at her Park Avenue Antique Mall. Auble described Case as an incubator for many people who have remained in town to start stores. Case herself offers credit to another store, Collection Connection.

Case said, "there was, first, one in town. It was Collection Connection. Then I was the first one with the mall concept that came into town. And then I was joined by the Williams Bros. That started out as a mall. And now we have another wonderful store, The Green Bench."

The downtown's first antique store, Collection Connection, is also on the Internet at www.ccantiques.com where Micky Fischer invites people to browse and purchase items that she has.

Regardless of who started it all, built it further, or when it really began to achieve an obvious public presence, Auble voices a sentiment that other dealer's share. There is no competitiveness between them. "Having a collection of stores is very attractive to that type of shopper." Stores cater to different tastes, she said, and they do not mind displaying one another's brochures. "Everybody has different tastes in antiques." She said that it takes a lot of looking to find things that appeal to different tastes.

Having a collection of stores is not the only element that is needed for success, however. Shop owners credit their opportunity for success to

Loon Lake subdivision receives final approval

By ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

Lake Villa trustees gave their final blessing to the Oakland Ridge subdivision, which is mostly in Antioch Township.

This subdivision is the first subdivision in Antioch Township to be in the Village of Lake Villa. The subdivision is located just west of Oakland School. Trustees voted 5-1 in favor of the plan.

"They (District 34) didn't want sewer and I didn't see a reason to support it," said Trustee Joyce Frayer.

Frayer said District 34 officials said they are not interested in receiving a sewer hookup from the village which had worked with the developer, Larry Basil, to provide sewer to the school.

The final plat was approved contingent on the developer acquiring approval from the Stormwater Management Commission.

"We felt they had worked with us throughout the process," said Plan Commission Chairman Bill Smolarchuk. Oakland Ridge is a 122-unit single-family subdivision on a 60-acre parcel. About 40 acres of the project is in Antioch Township.

ANTIQUES: Merchants unite

other area businesses.

Hacke gives credit to the fact that Antioch is on Route 173 and is between the tollway and Richmond. "This is one of the major thoroughfares on the way to Richmond," he said. There are pilgrims that just travel through and hit all the stores.

Another factor is that there are so many antiques from this area to be sold. Hacke said that in 1890, Sears Roebuck and Company was selling things by mail order. The Chain of Lakes area bought merchandise from the catalogue for the duplicate homes of Chicagoans. Homes here were furnished out of that catalogue. He said that "antiques sold are right from this area."

One of the most recent developments to affect local antique business is regular train service from Chicago on the Metra Railroad. "The train was a large factor. I have had people come into the shop who had just taken the train to Antioch to shop and look around."

What do people find in Antioch antique shops? Every store is different and they specialize. Auble explained that she and her husband like the rustic country look. They find an elegant look to be very appealing. For that reason, their merchandise caters to those values.

Within their store are other people who sell other types of antiques. Auble said that Judy Patterson and Jack Albert restore old antiques and sell them within Williams Bros. Emporium. The store actually has four different people selling different types of antique merchandise.

Calabrese said, "Ours is a consignment shop." Although she also said, "We're an adoption bureau for antiques." She said they have all different price ranges. "It is not totally antiques. We do have gift items and items that are home decorative."

Case said her Park Avenue Antique Mall is known for her furniture offerings. "I've been known for my fine furniture." The sense that Antioch is coming into a strong period of antique sales is based on what the store owners see in their business. Auble said that Antioch has a lot of people during the weekend. "We're pretty busy on Mondays," she also said. Any given day Williams Bros. Emporium can be busy she said. Calabrese said, "We're seeing repeat customers."

Hacke said, "There is no way to peak this. As long as people have memories, this will never go away."

Hacke could be correct. The customers that come to his place are not just people who are nostalgic or have money to invest in antiques.

"I have kids come in here and it floors me sometimes what they know." He had one child come into his Another Mans Treasures store who was collecting Daguerrotypes. In that customer he could see the future of his business and customers.

GLOBE: Building will be filled with Dollar General Store

sells products at the dollar price point, not some artificial price such as $3.95 or $19.99. They do not advertise, although they will distribute a circular that describes their merchandise in order to introduce themselves to the community.

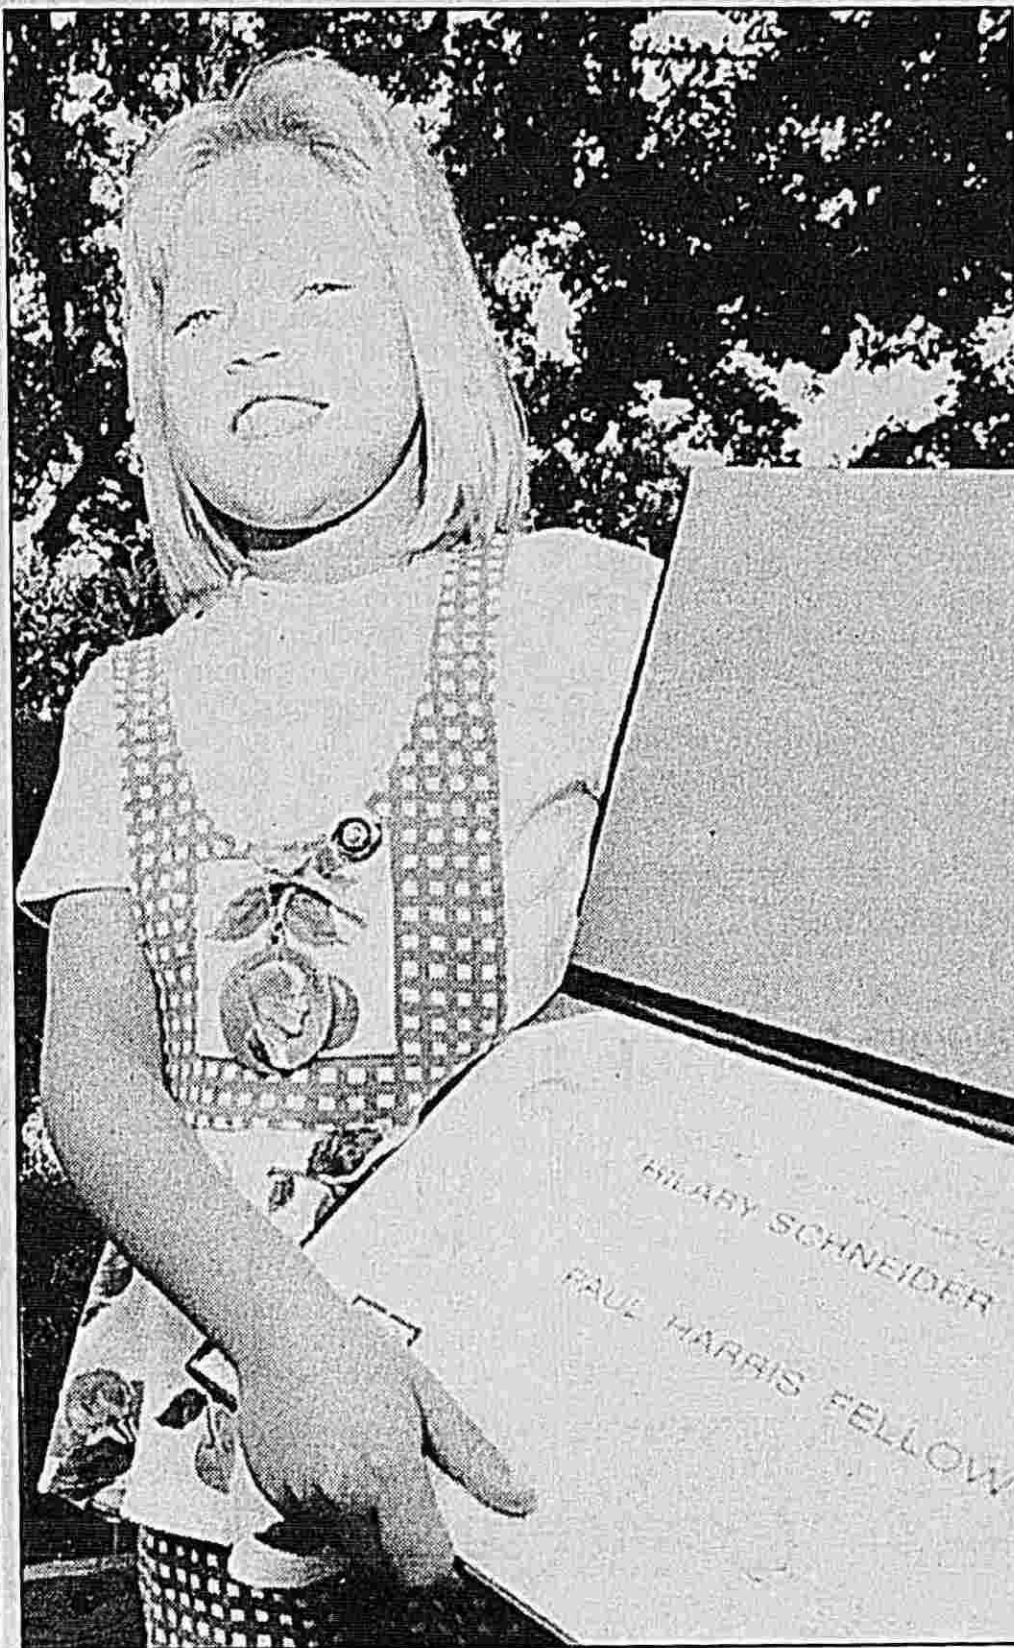

Russell is looking for stock people, cashiers, clerks, and a store manager. He needs to hire people for both the Antioch and the Mundelein Store. He said the jobs are minimum wage positions. Those who are interested can inquire at the store or call 837-9646 and ask for the store manager.

"The Globe Store has been the hardest store to find a tenant for because it is too large for a small retailer and too small for a large retailer. It's in the in-between size and it's been very, very difficult," explained LeMere of village efforts to help the owner find a tenant. "We have come extremely close twice."

"Dollar General is one of the, if not the most successful dollar chains in the United States," said LeMere. "They're growing very rapidly and having great success at their business. So, we're tickled to have them here."

"We expect to be here forever," said Russell.

Arts, Crafts Show signals start of holiday buying

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff reporter

Holiday gift buying begins in September. For Antioch Township residents, it can begin at the annual fall Arts and Crafts Faire in downtown Antioch, September 6 and 7 on Toft Street.

Efforts to build the fair into a dominant weekend attraction continue to be implemented by Chamber of Commerce and Industry officials. This approach is showing results, according to Arts and Crafts Faire organizers.

"We're approaching it more aggressively," said Dan Sills, of Betty Sills Gallery in downtown Antioch. The result is that every year the fair is better and the people who attend it find more to buy.

Dan Sills said that it was the intent of the Chamber to spend a few years developing the fall fair into a strong companion show for the slightly stronger Spring fair. "It's going to take time," he said. The spring fair response was strong and that can help build a strong fall show Sills said. Weather is critical too, he added.

It is difficult to get a handle on attendance, Sills said, since the fair organizers do not have a way to meter attendance. This fall they will try to do that. The fair has always been a free show and people come and go as they please. Most estimates of attendance at the Spring show were about 6,000 to 7,000 people. "This is what most people guessed we had," Sills said.

The fall show has been more aggressively advertised than the Spring fair was. The Chamber is sending direct mail advertising to areas in Antioch Township not previously covered by direct mail. There's an extra 8,000 households in Lindenhurst and Lake Villa Sills said and the Chamber is going to reach them with its fair advertising, or at least those in zip code area 60046. This goes beyond the mailing done for the Spring fair. The Chamber, at that time, mailed announcements of the Arts and Crafts Faire to 7700 households in the 60002 zip code to ensure that people knew about it.

He expects the 1997 Fall Arts and Crafts Faire to be as good as the Spring fair and to be better than last year's Fall fair. "There are artists coming who have not been here before," he said. To him that is important because it not only brings in fresh art, but it also signals that artists speak well of their experience here in Antioch.

The Arts and Crafts Faire is an economic event for the community Sills said. "There is an intent to bring people in to see the fair, eat at the restaurants, shop the stores, and walk the streets of Antioch." He thinks the fair will continue to build, as expected and desired by the Chamber of Commerce, because of the feedback they receive from vendors.

The questionnaire filled-out by vendors to describe their selling experience comes back with positive comments. "Most say their sales were better than expected," Sills said. It is that kind of year-to-year building of performance that creates a good fair.

Downtown Antioch merchants also see the fair as a solid investment for themselves. Sills said that merchants feel that shopper traffic is way up when there is an attraction like this. "I would guess antique stores and impulse shops would also benefit," he said.

Sills sees the fair as the start to a holiday buying season for many people who buy and accumulate gifts. "September is definitely the time for the start of gift buying for the holiday season," he said.

Attractive and useful 1998 school year calendars were provided to the Antioch Elementary School District 34 Board of Education. They were prepared for printing by Mick Torres at Antioch Community High School. The calendars were sponsored by the First National Bank Employee Owned in downtown Antioch. The calendars were distributed to parents while they registered their children. It is another contribution from the business community to the public sector made possible through Ted Axton at the bank.

Joan Bock of Antioch is the big winner of $250 worth of Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry Gift Certificates. The promotion was carried out during Taste of Antioch-Maxwell Street Days. There were approximately 1000 entries. Bock is the only winner.

The Antioch Jaycees have reduced their new member rates through October to $25 from the annual rate of $45. The Jaycees are having their monthly meetings on the last Monday of the month at Grass Lake Landing. To take advantage of the meeting night and Monday Night Football, the time of the meeting has been changed to 7 p.m. so members can enjoy watching the game together, according to President Greg Benyak.

Scrapbook reveals glimpse into woman's life in early century

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Whatever happened to Teresa was not immediately visible in her scrapbook. The scrapbook was found on a backroom table in the Park Avenue Antique Mall of Antioch. Once it was discovered, however, the sadness of the discovery would come to dominate the memory of her journal.

Brenda Case, proprietor-owner of Park Avenue Antique Mall, has been at her downtown Antioch location for almost seven years. She acquired the scrapbook as she does many of her antiques. "By one of my dealers. I have a lot of dealers occupying the mall, and she brought it in from an estate sale," said Case.

The red cover scrapbook is the type for sale at any Ben Franklin. It was not special of itself. Case does get scrapbooks through her store, she said, but not like this scrapbook. "This scrapbook has the beginning of their married life, probably until the passing away of the people. That's what I kind of think," she said when asked to speculate about the scrapbook.

"It kind of tells about a person's entire life, their maiden name." Close suggested it was "a biography depicted by all the greeting cards (the person received) from 1911 to about 1945."

The cards give it an artistic unity and a focus that is at variance with the "scrapbook" description. "There are some really beautiful ones. Beautiful," she said as she turned pages so fragile they shattered at the edges.

Has she seen scrapbooks like this before? "Not that often." She acknowledged she had seen some before, "But never with so many wonderful cards in them, such a variety."

It was evident from the inside cover that the book was intended to be a serious record. In the upper left corner was a list of 12 pieces of identification that are so unique to one person that there is no other way for anyone to claim it. Teresa (last name omitted here) was born October 22, 1911 in Glogavatz, Arad, Romania. She arrived in America in May 1914 as a young child. On June 23, 1925 she became a citizen. Her petition is in volume 154 of Superior Court. Her mother's maiden name was Merle, her father's mother's name was Kolb. Her father's grandmother's maiden name was Schale. She recorded every detail in her journal.

At the age of 25 she married Leo, or, in 1941, Leon—according to his signature on the Christmas card he gave her that year. She had started to save his cards before they married. It was the first card in the book when they lived on North Drake Avenue and she worked for the National Tea Company. There are several places in her journal where she wrote of key events and places in the margins. Some of that information is now lost because of the flaking edges of the paper pages.

It turns out her journal did not contain a lifetime of information. Indeed, it only can be said charitably to cover 10 years. In mid-1943 something happened that escaped the knowledge of all who had ever seen the scrapbook with its cards. Teresa stopped pasting the cards in the book, although Leo would continue to send them to her as affectionately as he ever did for three more years.

Through the war years, Leo only rarely missed a day for which a card was due. After the war, in 1946, the cards stopped. His last cards in 1946 were given only on their wedding anniversary and her birthday. He wrote in the former "Your ever loving husband" and in the latter "Your loving husband." The written record reveals that he always loved her. During the decade, there were two days that he always honored with a card: Valentine's Day and her Birthday. It took him three years early in his marriage to figure out that an anniversary card was expected. He never forgot after that.

He sent annual cards on seven holidays and anniversaries. He sent a couple of New Years cards, one year a mother's day card, and three Easter cards over the decade. It would be hard to argue that he was really serious about sending a card on those dates. The other two dates that he almost always remembered with a special card were Christmas and their Wedding anniversary. During the first five years of World War II he was most likely to give a card.

The cards themselves were elaborate, large, embossed, multi-color romantic manifestations of the printer's art. The sentiments expressed were elaborately intimate about love and life. The cards do not suggest that money was dear, but her 1940 note in the journal's margin suggests otherwise. "Times were tough then. Neither one of us worked." In September 1941, Leo began work at Kliens, and in October she noted that she became a "swedger." In December their home burned down.

Were the cards important? Did Leo understand that they were? Possibly. In 1942, she wrote on the side of her journal, "He certainly has come a long way since 1937. I sure was proud of this card. We even got it in our first colored movie. In February of '42, Max left for the Marine" (slightly illegible). This was the only year Leo gave his wife a Mother's Day card. He did not sign it; she was not his mother.

Max was home on furlough in July of 1942. Joe and Ruth got married. And in November, the shattered edges of the journal's pages suggest that "Max left for the S...I P...."

South Pacific? Max left for the South Pacific? In May, 1943 she wrote: "3rd week of July Ray enlisted in the Army." Then: "Syl leaves for the Marines November 8, 1943."

Although she saved her husband's cards for the next three years in a group at the back of her journal, she never pasted-in another card or made another journal entry after Syl left for the Marines.

Leo gave her a card that December, a month after Syl left. "Always," he affectionately wrote; "Isn't it a beaut," she wrote in her journal. What happened?

The journal gives no indication of her relationship to Max, Ray, or Syl. Given her age, it seems unlikely they were her children (but, they may have been Leo's children). She continued to save the thirteen cards her husband lovingly bought and signed until October, 1946. By then, he was less faithful in sending cards, perhaps. He missed Valentine's Day that year for the first time since they met. There is no Christmas card for 1946. Her 35th birthday was his last card in a journal she kept dutifully for 10 years.

Teresa never explained what happened in this journal. On her 32 birthday, she stopped maintaining it as she had been, although she would continue to receive and save his cards.

As intimate a revelation as this could be, she kept her final counsel on something that affected her very much. A buyer of her scrapbook-like journal would never know.

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ANTIOCH

Traffic stop, DUI

Antioch Police Officers stopped Rickey D. Dean, Antioch, traveling westbound at Route 173 west of Tiffany Road on Aug. 20 at 11:10 p.m. in a 1985 Oldsmobile. He had allegedly crossed the centerline west of Tiffany Road on Route 173 twice. He refused a Breathalyzer test. Police charged him with a traffic violation, DUI, and driving without insurance. He was released on $100 bond and a drivers license. He was assigned a court date of Sept. 16 in Waukegan.

Traffic stop, alcohol consumption

Antioch Police Officers stopped Jacklyn Davis, 19, Antioch, traveling northbound on Main Street at Depot Street in a 1984 Suburban Hatchback on Aug. 22 at 2 a.m. Officers noticed that her headlight was out. She allegedly failed a field sobriety test and her drivers license revealed that she was under twenty-one. Her passenger, Timothy A. Mojonner, 19, Hoffman Estates, also allegedly had breath with an odor of alcohol.

Driver Davis was arrested. She was charged with consuming alcohol as a minor and for having only one headlight. She took the Breathalyzer test (0.13). She was released on $75 recognizance and her court date is Sept. 10, 1997 at 9 a.m. in Grayslake.

Mojonner was charged with consumption of alcohol as a minor. He took a Breathalyzer test (0.14) and was released on $75 recognizance bond. His court date is Sept. 10 at 9 a.m. in Grayslake.

Bicycle patrol finds car with cannabis

Antioch Police Officers on bicycle patrol on Aug. 22 at 3:05 p.m. saw an expired registration on the passing 1989 Mercury of Jerry R. LaSaint, 20, Antioch, as he traveled northbound on Anita Avenue at Anita Terrace. When they approached his parked vehicle, they asked for his drivers license. His license was allegedly suspended. He was arrested and his vehicle searched. Allegedly officers found four partially used cigarettes which they believed to be filled with cannabis.

Officers charged LaSaint with operation of a vehicle with an expired registration, driving while on a suspended drivers license, operating an uninsured vehicle, and possession of cannabis. He was released on $200 cash bond. His court date is Sept. 10 at 10:30 a.m. in Grayslake.

Warrant arrests

Antioch Police Officers have made a number of arrests of people wanted on outstanding warrants.

Antioch police arrested Jordan D. Gantar, 18, Waukegan, as he stood on the sidewalk near 830 Main Street Aug. 18 at 2 p.m. He was known by police officers to be wanted by Round Lake Beach police. Gantar was unable to post the necessary bond.

Antioch police were called to their station on Aug. 20 at 1:01 p.m. to arrest Carlton Craig, 36, Antioch, who allegedly wanted to turn himself in. He was wanted on an active warrant out of DuPage County for failure to appear for a DUI court hearing. He posted $500 cash bond. He was assigned an Oct. 3 court date at 8:30 a.m. in Waukegan.

Antioch police arrested Tony A. Winkles, 23, Antioch, Aug. 21 at 7:39 a.m. on an active warrant through the Lake County Sheriffs Department. He was given a $3000 bond. Winkles was held at the Antioch jail until transported to the Lake County Jail.

Antioch police received a call to help a person who was locked out of her 1987 Pontiac and needed a "citizen assist" at 5:47 p.m. on Aug. 23. Officers determined that Melinda Y. Ortiz, 28, Antioch, was wanted by the Lake County Sheriffs Department on a warrant related to obstruction of justice. She was taken to the Lake County Jail.

Crash victim remembered as partner struggles in hospital

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

When Brian Steffenhagen was growing up, he showed an early interest in mechanics.

That interest blossomed as he took automotive classes at the College of Lake County, then at Wyoming Tech in diesel specialties. He would work at a Waukegan Cadillac dealership before taking on a position at Maneval Inc. in Grayslake.

The Gages Lake resident was one of three persons killed in a car crash on Stearns School Road at 9:15 p.m. Aug. 16. He was in a car with James Oeschle of Lindenhurst. Oeschle is listed in critical condition at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge.

"He worked as a mechanic at North Shore Cadillac in Waukegan before it closed," Sandy Steffenhagen, his mother, said.

Brian, who lived in Gages Lake, was remembered by many of his classmates who constructed a memorial at the crash scene. Friends of two Warren High students who also perished, Kristen Pilcher and Shannon Schwarz, likewise put up a memorial.

"Brian really enjoyed his job. He worked up the ladder from laborer to a member of the operator's union," Sandy Steffenhagen said.

"The kids all grew up together. Some 15-16 friends stopped by and placed the memorial near a tree. There were also crosses and flowers. It helped for the others. It was a rough day, but this is the greatest thing that could have happened," Sandy said.

A local nursery donated landscaping.

Oeschle's wife, Kim, and family members were at the hospital as James, also known as Jamie, fought for his life. Bobby Steffenhagen, Brian's brother, has three children.

"They all love their uncle," Sandy said.

Brian Steffenhagen was born May 23, 1964. He is survived by his parents, Robert and Sandra Steffenhagen; brother Robert Steffenhagen Jr. of Round Lake and a sister, Jacqueline (Davis) Kennedy of West Chicago; nieces and nephews and grandmothers, Ethel Ames of Wadsworth and Ruth Steffenhagen of Russell.

Visitation for Steffenhagen was held at Gurnee Funeral Home with services at Gurnee Community Church. He was buried at Highland Memorial Park in Libertyville.

Final boat safety measures become law

Children will be required to wear lifejackets

Area boaters and residents who worry about the dangerous conditions on local lakes breathed a sigh of relief as the two remaining measures of state Senator Adeline Geo-Karis' boat safety package were signed into law. Governor Jim Edgar signed legislation requiring life jackets for children and improving safety restrictions on moving watercraft.

Senator Geo-Karis (R-Zion) says boat safety has been a major concern for her over the past two years after accidents on local waterways prompted outrage within the community.

"When so many accidents happen each year on our lakes and so many people are injured or killed, it's a sign that something needs to be done to improve conditions," Geo-Karis said.

In reaction to the outrage, Geo-Karis introduced legislation in the Senate and held public hearings in Antioch and Springfield to gather ideas and input from boaters, law enforcement, concerned citizens and other interested groups.

"Beginning Jan. 1, 1998 new safety regulations will help improve conditions on Illinois waterways," Geo-Karis said. "These measures were developed with concern and cooperation from so many people dedicated to meeting one goal—safety on our lakes. I am happy to see our efforts end with such great success."

Senate Bill 495 requires children younger than 13 years old to wear a lifejacket while on a moving boat less than 26 feet in length. Lifejackets will not be required if the child is below deck or in an enclosed cabin space.

Previously, Illinois law only required that lifejackets be on board for each person on the boat. Anyone operating a watercraft on private property would be exempted under the new law.

Senate Bill 496 requires motorboats used for water-skiing to have a capacity for at least three persons; prohibits sitting on the gunwales, tops of seat backs or on the decking over the bow or stern while a boat is in motion; and raises the age at which a person can rent a personal watercraft (jet ski) from 12 years old to 16 years old. The driver of the boat, persons fishing or anyone operating a boat on private property are to be exempted from the provision restricting seating.

New laws concerning sex offenders, job applicants

Illinois neighborhoods and patients at state-contracted mental facilities will be better protected under two new Illinois crime laws.

Governor Jim Edgar approved the measures, dealing with repeat sex offenses and providing false information on job applications.

State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion), who co-sponsored the measures in the Senate, says the new laws will help keep Illinois residents safe.

Senate Bill 7 increases penalties for repeat violations of criminal sexual assault, aggravated criminal sexual assault and predatory criminal sexual assault of a child to a term of natural life imprisonment for two or more offenses as long as the second offense occurs after the conviction for the first.

The second measure, House Bill 1397, sets criminal penalties for providing false information for employment in the mental health industry.

Under the law, anyone willfully providing false information about professional certification, licensing, criminal background or employment history within the last five years on an employment application for a direct care position is guilty of a Class A misdemeanor and could spend up to a year in jail.

Where are those lazy days of summer?

School days, school days, the summer's finally over, hooray. All the little kiddies are back with their nose's to the grindstone trying to accomplish impressive feats that will hopefully qualify them for a pricey scholarship to some big fancy college. Even if flipping burgers at the local fast food establishment is all they have planned for their future, you can be assured that someday that too, will require a little piece of paper with a University name engraved on it.

The eighty days of summer vacation were thoroughly enjoyed but now it's time to get back to reality and the hustle and bustle of the morning routine. No matter how prepared you might think you are for the day to begin, there is always a catastrophe or two as the school hour approaches. As parents you can rest assured that your household is not the only one of the block going through mass confusion every morning between 6:45 and 7:45 a.m.

This is the time of day that nobody can find anything and mom's radar detector goes into full alert. Mom's are so good at this particular skill that if the control tower radar of any major airport malfunctioned, they could tap into this resource and safely guide planes from all over the world to their intended destination.

A typical morning includes, but is not limited to: Billy Bob not being able to find his other sneaker, Betty Lou whining she has nothing to wear, little Tommy misplacing his science project that mom stayed up all night working on, and sweet little Susie, spilling cereal all down the front of her school clothes. Mom's role is to answer everyone's cries and please while making lunches, packing back packs and scouring oatmeal off the kitchen light fixture hanging over the table.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Meanwhile dad's hollering from upstairs that he has no clean white shirts and Rover is standing with his nose pressed against the back door doing his "you had better let me out" dance. About the time mom is going down the mental checklist that all lunches are made, teeth are brushed, hair is combed and everything is snapped, buttoned, zipped, tied or velcroed, a cry can be heard that some article of importance has just been lost, taken, misplaced or flushed down the toilet.

Suddenly a bus horn honks about the same time the phone begins to ring and somewhere off in the distance there is the distinct sound of spraying water—Rover didn't make it.

Thank goodness the lazy mornings of Christmas vacation are right around the corner.

And so goes another, "Jingle From Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

High school football to be on local TV

Football season is upon us, and many of us are gearing up for the new season.

With this in mind, we I put together our Pre-Season All-Lakeland Team, including a first team, honorable mention, newcomer of the year, and player of the year.

Player of the year was a tie, and went to Dave Gooch, of Antioch and Neil Schroeder, of Grayslake. For all of these results, including photos and rosters of the local high school football teams, see the special football preview pull-out section, located at the back of section C of this paper.

The Star Channel, a local cable channel based out of Waukegan, will play nine local high school football games on its channel three broadcasts, and will replay each game three times in the week to follow. Star Channel will feature veteran sportscasters Dan Capasso, Chip Egan and Mitch Smith who will provide play-by-play and color commentary.

The season kicks off this Friday with Warren hosting Buffalo Grove. That game will be broadcast Sept. 2 at 8p.m., and will be replayed Sept. 4 at 8p.m. and Sept. 6 at noon.

Some games will be live, but all games will be replayed the week following the contest.

Games in Star Channel's coverage include Antioch at Zion Sept. 12, and Round Lake at Grant Oct. 24.

The Condell Distance Classic will be held Sunday, Sept. 21 at the Condell Medical Center, in Libertyville, and includes a 5K run/walk, the Lakeland Newspapers 1-mile, and a 10K classic. Registration includes t-shirts, awards, prize drawings, food and beverages, kids activities and fun. For more information, or to register, please call 362-2905, ext. 5297.

Grand Slam USA in Spring Grove is now registering for fall baseball, softball and basketball programs. Please call (815) 675-3005 for more information.

Coaches, listen up! The Coaches Hotline! is now available for use in the Chicagoland area and can help with communication and coordination between children, family, parents and coaches. The Coaches Hotline! allows any local youth programs in the 312, 708, 773 and 847 area codes can take advantage of this service for free.

With a system of coaches voice-mailboxes inside the scheduling system, coaches can use the mailbox to leave weekly information for parents and player specific to their team, and players and parents have the opportunity to leave messages for their coach or administrator.

For more information, please contact Jim Foy at (773) 298-0202, or 1 (800) 273-2839.

Bulldogs rely on chemistry

Football hopes lie in togetherness of seniors, youngsters

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Training camp is usually a chance for seniors to shine.

After all, they know the routine and a little togetherness often shows the up-and-coming sophomores who is boss.

But at Grant High, where sophomores are coming off an unbeaten frosh season, there may be room in the starting lineup for those pesky 10th graders.

"I have been trying to make myself faster, and have better reads and get stronger," said linebacker Bart Bending.

Bending sees no problem as the team readies for an Aug. 29 trip to Maple Park against Kaneland - a start to the season without a league title to shoot for.

"We are just going to have to get better every week," said Bending.

Bending from his fullback position must adjust to lefty QB Jason Wulf.

"I took handoffs from him our freshman and sophomore years," said Bending.

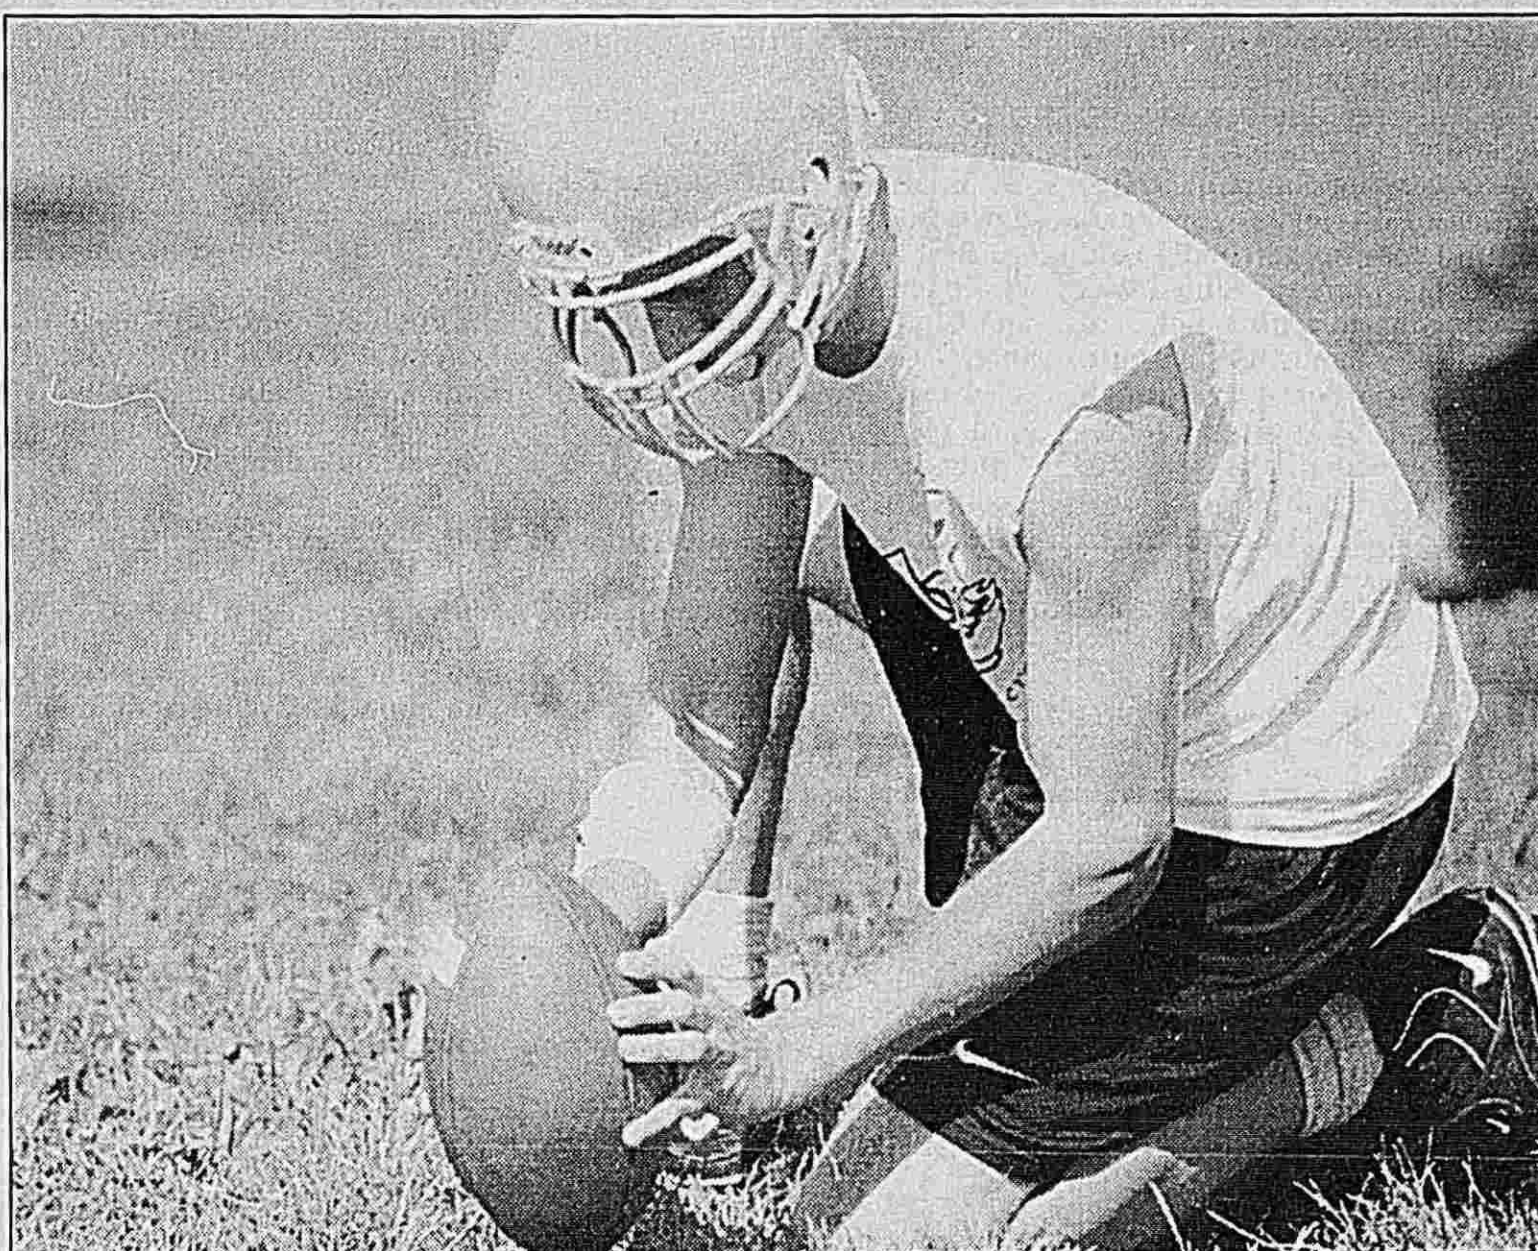

He enjoys his role on defense in Grant's 4-3 formation.

"I like linebacker because you can get in on every play. I like to blitz, but our defensive line can get in there quicker," said Bending.

Two of last year's playoff teams open with home games Aug. 29. Marengo is at Johnsburg while Walther Lutheran is at Richmond-Burton. Lutheran is not expected to be a push-over, as the squad reached the state quarterfinals last year.

Carmel High standout fullback Jim Hanna almost wasn't a Corsair.

"It was a last-minute decision. I was going to go to Antioch, but they

A Carmel player sets up the ball for a field goal try in pre-season practice for the Corsairs. Carmel hosts Fenwick this weekend to kick off the 1997 football season.—Photo by Sandy Bressner had cut freshmen sports," said Hanna.

Hanna, of Lindenhurst, was in the same position as star pitcher Josh Ward and elected to go to the Mundelein Catholic school for four years.

Carmel opens the season at home against Fenwick Aug. 29. The Corsairs are expected to go with Kevin Dix at quarterback.

"I like his leadership and that he is under control," said coach Mike Fitzgibbons.

Border battles: Round Lake begins its independent era with a long road trip - to Mukwonago, Wis. on Aug. 29. By contrast, Wauconda's team only has a few miles to travel on Route 176 when it battles Mundelein opening night.

Forget the Bears and the Packers. Also on the border battles list feature Richmond-Burton clashing with St. Joe's of Kenosha Sept. 6. Antioch hosts Salem Central Sept. 6.

Most successful area coach: that honor continues to be the domain of Bob Bradshaw of Johnsburg. He starts the season with 163 career wins, 94 losses and one tie. His 6-4 season last year and the last Northwest Suburban Conference championship helped bring respectability back to JHS. The lion's share of Bradshaw's wins came in a 152 win career at Woodstock.

Bill Mitz, Stevenson mentor, is in second place with 93 wins. If the Pats have an average season (for them) he should hit the century mark. Mitz has been at the helm for 15 years in Lincolnshire.

Moving up the ladder to third place is Antioch's Del Pechauer at 36-46 in nine seasons.

Cable earns medalist honors for ACHS

A good start, but much work needs to be done.

That is the assessment for Antioch High's girls varsity golf team's first match of the season by coach Steve Wapon. The Sequoits scored a 218, which beat Palatine Fremd's 223 and Kenosha Tremper's 228.

Junior Brittany Cable gained medalist honors with a 51.

"Cable stayed outstanding. She only had 19 putts for the nine holes," said Wapon.

"We are a young team with only one senior. This was not a complete match - a lot of girls had six good holes, three bad ones. We are looking for consistency, but that is tough for any golfer," said Wapon.

Other varsity scores included three in the 50's at Antioch's home course. Kristen Hungarland had a 55; Sarah Groh a 55; Abby Clark a 57 and Dana Spandet a 59. Veronica Pazanin had a 64.

Wapon said he would like to see the varsity team score shoot under 200.

The junior varsity had a 257 team score. Tremper had a 251, Fremd a 266.

Carrie Noonan and Heather

Hvotari had 61s for Antioch, followed by Jenny Barbera with a 67; Elizabeth Zanlerberghe had a 68.

Antioch hosts Warren and Hersey Aug. 27. Antioch is at Evanston Aug. 28.

Tom Jones navigates the Milwaukee mile in an American Speed Association race. Jones said racers must be always aware when they are driving and they must respect the track.

'The biggest challenge is the money.'

A need for speed

Area race car drivers get a thrill out of competition

BY ALEC JUNGE
Staff Reporter

The thrill of speed echoes through the veins of race drivers; this is evident with two prominent area racers.

While they race in different classifications and varying circuits, they say they enjoy the competition. Tom Jones of Gurnee races stock cars in the American Speed Association (ASA), and Dave Moulis of Johnsbury races sprint cars at Wilmot Speedway.

"I used to watch the races at Waukegan Speedway and thought, some day, that is what I want to do," Jones said.

Jones has driven at literally hundreds of tracks throughout the Midwest and East Coast. Currently he drives a 1997 Pontiac Grand Prix.

"ASA has some of the best competition in the country," Jones said.

He noted some of NASCAR's finest have been in ASA. Some notable drivers include Mark Martin, Darrell Waltrip, Rusty Wallace, Ken Schröder and Dick Trickle.

Jones, 54, said he puts fear aside when racing. He does make sure he has the safest car possible.

"As you get older, you pay more attention to safety. Stock car racing is probably the safest form of racing," he said.

Jones said his wife, Mary Jo, and children, Tom, 7 and Andy, 5, travel with him to many of his events and are supportive of his driving.

He stressed the major obstacle in this form of racing is money, and for many drivers, not enough sponsorship.

"It costs $250,000 to $350,000 to be competitive. The biggest challenge is the money," said Jones.

Jones noted The Nashville Network has televised many of the races and has increased the exposure.

"A sponsor can get their name on a car and get their name to a national audience," he said.

One of the ways he has used to defray costs is rent his car to other drivers when he is not racing.

He has not been hurt seriously in several years. However, he bruised his ribs a few weeks ago. He says there is not much fear in racing, but he says you have to be aware of where you are driving.

"There are some tracks I have more fear. You have to respect the track," Jones said.

He plans to race a few more years, possibly cut back and eventually, become a car owner.

"I would like to become a car owner and get some sponsorship and have a younger person drive," Jones said.

His racing highlights include winning the Cadet Championship in 1965 at O'Hare Speedway. He won the points title at Illiana International Speedway and Grundy County Speedway in 1981. He also won the prestigious Bettenhausen Classic and had one ASA win at Jennerstown, Penn. in 1993.

Jones owns a performance parts and racing equipment business just west of Wadsworth.

MOULIS:

Currently leads Wilmot Speedway standings by 80 points.

At the opposite end of the spectrum is Moulis, who has been racing in the open-wheeled circuit for 10 years.

"I started sprints because I thought it was the direction things were going," Moulis said. "There is a lot of close racing. It's the thrill of the competition."

Moulis' said his family influence lead him to the tracks. Both his father and uncle were racers.

He said using common sense is the best way to race and avoid serious accident. He has not had a seri-

KID'S FARE

Kelly-Miller Circus is coming to Wauconda Sept. 11

The 1997 Edition of the Kelly-Miller Circus will prove to be one of the most impressive ever! The new "European Style" format debuted in 1995, and was an overwhelming success. The innovative design of the Big-Top allows each patron equal distance seating from the large performance ring. The added height in the tent allows for a wider variety of daring aerial acts and breath-taking maneuvers.

Kelly-Miller is one of few who still carry a live band, and the extensive lighting system that has been created brings a theatrical flair to each and every act. But the quality and cleanliness of the Kelly-Miller Circus and the courtesy of the staff, is something that they will never change!

Featured this year are the Perez Family from Mexico. This troupe will present the always popular, and ever dangerous Flying Trapeze.

This multi-talented family will amaze audiences with their dexterity as they execute pyramids on the High-Wire and perform feats of balance upon the Revolving Wheel.

From South America comes the Vital

Family; they present an unbelievable display of archery that is both unnerving and spectacular as they become targets in this breathtaking display. This troupe also has many amazing talents in the realm of juggling and balancing.

Always a favorite with "children of all ages" are the animals. See the lovely Miss Cindi as she directs the Kelly-Miller six-horse Liberty Acts, as well as assisting Roy Wells in the presentation of the elephant acts.

The circus will be coming to town Thursday, Sept. 11 and is sponsored by the Wauconda Chamber of Commerce and the Wauconda Park Dist. Showtimes are 4:30 and 7:30 p.m. and will be set up at the Homer T. Cook Park.

Advance tickets are $7 for adults and $5 for children under 12 years of age. Tickets on circus day are only available at the circus are $9 for adults and $6 for children. Tickets are available at the Wauconda Car Wash, Wauconda Chamber of Commerce and the Wauconda Park Dist.

The circus Midway will open one hour prior to each show!

Hands on

Kohl Children's Museum, 165 Green Bay Road, Wilmette, provides a hands-on environment with daily, interactive activities for children from birth to eight years old. Special activities for August include:

Through Aug. 28: From the Earth: Natural Arts Week. Forget your usual paint brushes! This week at Kohl's, create masterpieces with brushes from nature, like twigs or carrot tops, while using egg tempera paint.

Aug. 29-Aug. 31: It's a Bird with a Trumpet, It's Charlie Parker Week. Create a work of art while listening to the spectacular sounds of Charlie Parker's jazz as we celebrate his birthday.

For more information on Kohl Children's Museum, call 256-6056.

Imagination plus

Imagine a place where cars are made from tin cans. Where a tiny finger can change the course of a river. And a ship can sail around the world in a day. Imagine a place big enough to host a child's imagination. It's the new Chicago Children's Museum, with 57,000 square feet dedicated to the curiosity and creativity of children ages one to twelve. Children can become artists, scientists, and leaders at the Chicago Children's Museum. Within the museum's doors, children are everything.

Children can make themselves a chair, build a table, or anything they can imagine in Under Construction.

Kids can become quiz show contestants in the Face to Face Exhibit. How about answering 911 emergencies? Kids can drive an ambulance and fix broken bones in City Hospital. Other imaginative exhibits include Inventing Lab, Artabounds, Grandparents, The Stinking Truth About Garbage, Waterways, and Treehouse Trails.

The Chicago Children's Museum is open Tuesday through Sunday and Mondays through Labor Day only. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Free Family Nights are every Thursday from 5 to 8 p.m. Admission is $5. The Children's Museum is located at Navy Pier, 700 E. Grand Avenue, Chicago, IL.

The Chicago Children's Museum is a great place to have a birthday party and groups are welcome by appointment. For more information, call (312) 527-1000.

'Starlight Express'

Tickets are now on sale to see "Starlight Express on Ice," the inaugural collaboration between family entertainment impresario Kenneth Feld, chairman and CEO of Field Entertainment, and theatrical titan Sir Andrew Lloyd Webber. The fast-paced, high-tech, interactive megamusical will appear at the Rosemont Horizon Sept. 24 through 28, before moving to Chicago's United Center, Oct. 1 to 5.

Originally released in 1983 as a theatrical show performed on roller skates, "Starlight Express" tells the tale of a little boy's dream of super-sonic train races come to life on ice in combusive competitions of international intrigue among a steam, electric and diesel engines.

"This show is about speed and energy—high-tech heart and soul," said producer Feld. "It's hard to describe our icy presentation of 'Starlight Express.' It's completely unconventional. We're cutting a new edge in ice shows. Audiences will experienced something completely different."

A gigantic, gleaming train station off steel is constructed on the ice of the in-the-round presentation.

Specially designed seating sections actually move patrons out onto the ice and into the action. Skaters weave and whiz along the icy railways, deftly demonstrating moves and tricks at top speeds.

A package of "cheer gear," provided to every audience member, invites them to come along for the interactive ride and root for their favorite train during the series of rock-'em, sock-'em races.

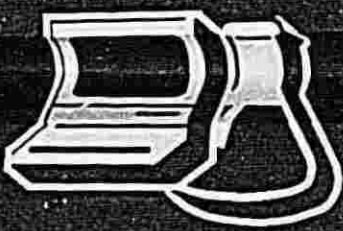

Tickets for "Starlight Express On Ice" can be purchased at the Rosemont Horizon Box Office, 6920 N. Mannheim Rd., the United Center box office, 1901 W. Madison St., Chicago, and all TicketMaster locations.

Ticket prices are $15 for adults and $10 for children (age 12 and younger), with a limited number of VIP seats available. There is an opening night discount of $5 on all tickets. To order tickets by phone, call TicketMaster at (312)559-1212.

Spend Christmas at Santa's Home

by JIM WARNKEN
President, North Star Travel

As a child, I always thought Santa lived at the North Pole. Kids in the rest of the world, however, believe the jolly bearded man in the red suit resides at the Korvatururi Foll in the middle of Finnish Lapland. Since Santa's main means of transportation is reindeer, and there are a lot more of them in Lapland than the North Pole, I guess it makes sense.

So now that you know where Santa really lives, instead of waiting for him to visit you, why not spend Christmas at his place this year? Finnair has some really "cool" Christmas tour packages to get you there, too.

How about this for a Christmas the family will never forget.

December 22 — Arrive at Kuusamo Airport in Finland, just south of the Arctic circle. After dinner at your cozy ski resort, a hostess explains the exciting holiday events ahead.

December 23 — After breakfast, it's off to reindeer country. You'll be provided with a thermo outfit to keep you warm on the reindeer sled trip over Ruka Mountain where you'll be met at his kota tent by a reindeer herder who will teach you Lapp skills such as reindeer driving and lassoing.

Later that day, back at the hotel, you can relax in the sauna while the kids are busy baking gingerbread cookies with the chef.

December 24 — Start the day with a little cross-country skiing. For lunch, what else but rice pudding. Then it's time to hop aboard a sleigh and head out into the forest in search of a Christmas tree to decorate later at the hotel. Hot "glogg" keeps you warm for the ride back.

After dinner, you'll be treated to a local children's choir. Then, Santa himself arrives to deliver the presents, thankful that you saved him the trip to your house.

December 25 — After services at a quaint local church, bundle-up for a three-hour snowmobile safari to a log cabin in Petajavaara.

December 26 — You're off to Kuusamo Tropical Spa for a dip in pools heated by underground hot springs. For the more adventurous, grab a snowmobile and take off to a frozen lake for a day of ice fishing and a picnic lunch sitting on reindeer skins around a campfire.

December 27 — It's time to head home with lifetime memories of a Christmas at Santa's place!

I should have known there'd be a catch

When my husband "Bear" and I got married, I can't tell you how many of his female friends told me what a "great catch" he was. It was only afterward that I realized that one of the definitions of "great catch" might have been "he's good at fishing."

And when we moved into our rental home this June on Tranquility Lake in Heron Harbor, I thought that this place would turn out to be a wonderful solution for my husband and his spring-through-fall fishing fanaticism. What I thought, specifically, was this: if he could fish all he wanted to, whenever he wanted to, he might actually tire of it.

Wrong!
The fact that we have a pier right in our back yard does not calm down his obsession with fishing (what was I thinking??).

On the contrary—putting a pier in my husband's view is like throwing a bucket of blood into shark-infested waters. It just whips him into a fishing frenzy day and night.

So what should I do now?
Well, if our life was a movie musical, I would just sing a song about it, maybe something like this:

LIFE'S A BEAR

Donna Abear

The Heron Harbor Hillbillies
(sung to the tune of "The Beverly Hillbillies" theme song)

Come and listen to my story 'bout a man named Bear
A nice carpenter, he builds us homes and we live there Until one day we tried rentin' for awhile
And ever since we did, he's been wearin' quite a smile
(Fishin' hole—Happy soul)

See, we rented out a home in Heron Harbor on the lake
Now he thinks he won the lottery or finally got his "break"
Cuz every time he wants to fish, he just walks out the door
And when he's done, 10 minutes later, he can fish some more
Every night
("Fish might bite")

He keeps hopin' every time he casts to catch a record fish
But I admit that I am hopin' he won't get his wish
Cuz he will want to mount that thing and stick it on the wall
And then I'll have to dust it hard and hope it takes a fall
(Accident: Fish got bent.)

And the times when he's not fishin', he is thinkin' bout it still I'll say, "How was your day?" and he'll talk about bluegill
And if I'm really lucky he might talk about some bass
It's times like that I'd really like to kick him in the...grass
(One-track mind—Fish to find!)

Well, it's gettin' kind of irritatin', always talkin' fish
But I guess it could be worse—he could be chasin' some young dish!
At least I'm not a widow or a real neglected wife
But there are times when I'd prefer a more excitin' life
(Fishin's tame Gimme ... Bulls games!)

Questions or comments for Humorist Donna Abear can be sent to Lakeland Newspapers, 30 S. Whitney St., Grayslake, IL 60030.

Demi takes more off in 'G.I. Jane'

Zillionaire movie star Bruce Willis' better half, zillionaire Demi Moore, has shown us she's willing to take off anything we desire in the name of the acting muse, from posing in the nude on a magazine cover when very pregnant, to asking us to take her film bomb "Striptease" seriously, to finally shedding all her hair in her new movie "G.I. Jane."

The unlikely Moore, one of the few women who looks better bald than most of the "tressed" of us, exudes a lot of energy in this story of a female Navy Seal undergoing commando training.

In this tale of discrimination in "This man's Navy," Moore fights the "Good Old Navy Boys," the killer training program, the dislike of her fellow trainees, and a commander who likes women everywhere but in his Navy. We're sure the Navy does not consider this a documentary and doesn't plan to use it as a training film.

Under credibility gap, file the training scenes where Moore of the body beautiful is able to keep up with guys who could make the cast of "The Gladiators."

This is one film that some say often travels the fine line of probability, but others point to today's military headlines. Nonetheless, it will keep your attention and maybe incite you to tie your teenage daughter to a chair in her bedroom until she's 35.

Bringing in a real life war at the end adds to the action thrills, but ranks among the many highly unlikely scenarios in our files that have darkened the movie action scene this summer.

Moore brings along a good supporting cast led by Ann Bancroft, Viggie Mortensen and Scott Wilson and we are allowed a big glimpse of the Demi we loved in "St. Elmo's Fire," "Ghost," and "A Few Good Men." The script's depth is based on the "Today" strong female persecution in the military theme.

We'll give "G.I. Jane," rated "R," three out of a possible five stars because of its entertainment value.—By Gloria Davis

Ann Bancroft and Demi Moore keep the audience's attention in the action-packed summer hit "G.I. Jane."—Submitted photo

More on potpourri

With all the flowers in their glory at this time of year, it is hard to imagine that by October they will all just be faded memories. If we dry them, they can be preserved for many months, even years to enjoy.

This past week I had the pleasure of visiting Door County, Wis. with my family. Talk about blooms in their peak—what a feast for the eyes! Everywhere you look flowers are blooming. Mass plantings of annuals and perennials grace the establishments. The native wild flowers and ferns grace the landscape—what a background for that stunning lakeshore. Hollyhocks abound, pansies (that never seem to hold up through the summer heat here) were as big as daisy heads! Rudbeckia, yellow yarrow, daylilies, purple coneflower, cosmos, and nicotiana were in their glory! Perhaps the cool nights and the moisture from Lake Michigan helps them to perform so well.

So many of the shops have unique gifts made from dried herbs and flowers. There were all kinds of potpourris, very beautiful and very expensive! Which leads me back to the topic of creating your own potpourris and dried flower arrangements to enjoy. You can save a lot of money by drying your flowers to enjoy later.

Many flowers produce pretty seed pods, shrubs produce colorful berries, and don't forget about pine cones, they are very abundant here. Pine cones make lovely additions to potpourris and look stunning in a basket by the fire. If you fragrance them they will give out subtle perfume both before they go in the fire and while they are burning.

Pine cones, other small fir cones, seed pods, hibiscus, cedarwood, tree bark and cinnamon make suitable potpourris. In all cases, soak the woods with perfume oil and leave in sealed bag for a few weeks. This is a good way to use up old perfume blends or oils used to refresh commercial potpourris. This is a quick and easy method of creating scent.

Stove top potpourris are fun to make. Simmering potpourris add an instant burst of fragrance to your home. Always use the same pot to simmer potpourri and use it only for this purpose. The look of this potpourri is irrelevant, the smell is everything.

The important factor when creating these is whether you like the smell of the ingredient or not. You need not include flower petals as most will not have a strong enough smell, except some roses and lavender flowers.

Citrus peel, juniper berries, dried banana chips, coconut, vanilla pods work well. As do allspice, cardamom, cedar chips, cloves, coriander, nutmeg, sandalwood chips and ginger root.

The method for these simmering potpourris is similar to that of the dry. Premix the oil and chopped orange peel mixtures and let mature for a few days. Then choose your ingredients and mix with oil mixture and leave in sealed container to mature for a few weeks.

Mulled cider potpourri

1 cup chopped dry apple slices
1 cup allspice berries
1 cup cinnamon sticks
1 cup whole cloves
1 cup dry orange peel
soaked in two tablespoons apple oil and 1 teaspoon allspice oil.

Combine ingredients and leave to mature. This recipe makes enough for 30 little bundles and looks attractive in orange calico bundles tied with green ribbon for fall, or red calico with green ribbon for the Christmas season.

Enjoy!

Handling 'Jan Brady Syndrome'

Dear Dr. Singer, We have two boys. One of them has been in junior high and now the second one is going into junior high this school year. The older one is a terrific student and involved in everything he can get into his schedule. The younger one is upset because he cannot ever seem to live up to his brother's achievements. How can we help the younger one to succeed at his own things? F.G.

Dear F.G.,

Without trivializing your situation, this sounds an awful lot like a famous little girl we all know and love, called Jan Brady. Who among us doesn't remember the, "It's always Marcia, Marcia, Marcia thing." Jan felt overshadowed by her older sister's achievement. Your son sounds like he is in the same boat. Since I would say the same thing and agree wholeheartedly, I'm going to give you the same advice that Jan's parents gave her. You need to encourage your younger son to find his niche. Encourage him to try new things and see which fits the best. You also need to let him know that he doesn't need to be his older brother or compete with him. I know this is easier said than done, but he needs to know that they are both different, separate people with different strengths and weaknesses and shouldn't really be doing anything exactly the same way.

PARENT'S PLACE

You might want to check into some activities that are outside of school. I don't know if your son is competitive, but it might be good to start him out in activities that are non-competitive or less competitive and done just for the fun of it. Activities, in which people compete only against themselves in terms of improving over time. Things like Karate (just make sure he doesn't use the new skill to get back at his brother-if he does...goodbye Karate,) Gymnastics, etc.

If his problem is academic and you see that there is a struggle going on for your younger son, I would make sure he gets the help he needs in that way and help him to catch up or feel o.k. about where he is. There are lots of ways to do this catching up. If you have questions about that, please call me and I can give you more detail on this.

Another thing to watch out for is to make sure that the older son isn't feeding into this problem by taunting or harassing the younger son about weaknesses. I have seen this happen before and it isn't pretty. Your older son may also be having some issues about his younger brother having entered his turf (school). I would talk about this to the older son alone and see if any of that is occurring. Certainly, you want to respect both kid's feelings, but if you do find that there is any harassing or problem occurring, it needs to be stopped as it will only add to the animosity between brothers and the younger brother's insecurity.

It's not fun to feel like you are living in someone's shadow. You have to try and help your son to move out of the shadow and create his own light!

Opinion still stands

I'm not surprised that someone called me an idiot for sticking up for the boy who was barred from joining the Boy Scouts. We are supposed to have freedom of religion in this country. There should not be a religious test for their beliefs. According to when the U.S. Congress chartered Boy Scouts of America in 1916, it declared the purpose of the Boy Scouts as "the ability of boys to do things for themselves and others, to train them in scoutcraft, and to teach them patriotism, courage, self-reliance, and kindred virtues." This can apply to anyone, no matter what their religious beliefs. The founder of the Boy Scouts also wanted every boy to be able to join. Maybe the religious zealots should try practicing the Golden Rule.

Thanks for donations

I want to say many thanks to all our wonderful friends, neighbors, and local retailers who supported our Muscular Dystrophy fund raiser held Aug. 2 at the Round Lake Area pool. Thanks to everyone who donated to Jerry's Kids in the past. Without you, we wouldn't have any hope for the future.

Just what we needed

Congratulations, Round Lake Beach village officials, just what we needed on Rollins Road strip, another auto store to go along with all the beautiful used car lots.

Round Lake Beach

Clean up county

I would like to indicate an interest in the property we have in the county. It's been getting trashed up as we've read in recent publications by builders posting signs on the road right of ways and on church, school, and personal property. There's a couple things about trashing the county: 1. If signs are illegal, they should be able to get picked up by members of our township and turned in so the builders can be fined. 2. About papers being delivered in drive-ways, if people don't have a box, they obviously don't want papers delivered. We should take the county a little more seriously. People have moved out of the city to live in a cleaner environment.

Lake Villa Township

Let's take control

I think people have to get over getting upset when other people complain about high taxes for schools. We're all in favor of education, it's how it's being spent. When our schools hire assistant basketball coaches for grade schools and middle schools and get rid of industrial arts teachers, and there's more of an emphasis on sports than education. People have a right to get angry. I'm wondering if we're squandering our money by not buying smaller school buses and filling them up instead of having them run up and down with 2 or 3 kids on them. I think there's something strange going on in Dist. 95. No one seems to have any control over it and it has to stop.

Great path

I wanted to say great job on the bike path in Fox Lake. It's wonderful to see so many families using it. I think it also means Fox Lake is ready for more recreational opportunities. It's time to consider this.

Please be careful

This is to all kids. Be careful when you're driving. No one deserves to go through all these funerals and our friends dying. Please be careful.

Lopsided writing

I'm calling regarding an article in the Antioch News in the Lake County section, regarding the incident on Hutchins Road that killed two girls. The article was horribly written. The person who caused the accident was the girl. She was driving and killed a man, and injured one man who is a husband and father and is in the hospital fighting for his life. I guess I'm calling about your lopsided journalism and it infuriates me. How about an article on Brian and Jamie? This makes me sick and I'll never subscribe to your papers.

Limit credits, not kids

You people completely missed the point. No one said the government should limit the amount of children one has a right to have, just the amount of tax credit they can take from the rest of the reproductively responsible people in the United States that pay taxes, too. If we had less kids, maybe we'd have more money to spend on education. I don't think you get it.

Thanks for the honor

I just wanted to thank the Lindenfest committee and the town of Lindenhurst during Lindenfest. They did a free bingo game in my mother, Kathy Phillips', honor. She passed away last Sept. 3 and she was a big volunteer in the community. Her spot was always playing bingo during Lindenfest. Everyone knew her as Daisy the Clown. Playing the free bingo game was much appreciated and an honor to our family. Thanks from the Phillips family!

Laura Phillips

Isn't it illegal?

Gov. Edgar is not going to run for any political office. I think he knew that in the beginning, and now he gets to keep the $3 million that was raised for his campaign. This is political money, not for his private pocket. I think this should be illegal. I can't believe he's allowed to keep that amount of money.

What have they done?

I'm a boater from Fox Lake. I'd like to know what the Waterway Agency has done this year, like a list of accomplishments printed. Every channel I go through, there's dead trees and branches hanging around that need to be cleaned up. I see them out in their boats, but I never see any work being done. I'd like for them to respond and print the work that they've done this year.

Annexation worries

I attended a meeting on Aug. 21 concerning the annexation of the property at Beach Grove and Route 59. The board was presented with numerous newspaper clippings, etc. stating the proposed builder is already in litigation concerning other unfinished projects. The 300 feet the builder doesn't want to buy is the major concern of the board, since the potential exists of this becoming commercial. The board has no concern for adding traffic to a dangerous intersection. The meeting has been continued to Oct. 9, at 7:30 p.m. Hats off to Judy Martini for coming to the aid of us poor township residents.

Injustice

I'm calling to say what an injustice your paper has done by praising the two teenage girls who were killed in the car accident. I think it's terrible the other person who died had a very loving family. And that James Oeschle is a father of two and is close to death in the hospital. I think you ought to mention that the girls were the ones who drove on the wrong side of the road, killing themselves and Brian.

Editor's Note: An article noting the accomplishments of victim Brian Steffenhagen and more details on the accident ran in some of our editions. We apologize for not running it in all editions.

Let 'em build their own

Libertyville residents are being asked to create a high school district empire in Lake County, Mundelein, with a population of 23,700 has a high school, so does Libertyville with a population of 19,200. Vernon Hills has a population of 18,009 and growing very fast to the south. Now it's time for Vernon Hills to have their own high school. Approximately 40 percent of the students attending Libertyville High School live in Vernon Hills. This would greatly decrease the student population at the high school, now and in the future.

Libertyville

Egg on your face

Well, Round Lake, I hope you're proud of yourself. You were going to save the trees. Not only didn't you save them, but you didn't even record what Pritzker is taking down. In the front 27 acres, to date, they have taken down over 100 trees that consist of oak, maple, black walnut, hickory and apple. And you didn't even know they were going to take them down. Well, Mrs. Butler, you were the one to say, "oh, oh, the mighty oak." How do you like how they trashed that? And they're not even going to build there for two years. I hope you're happy, Round Lake, you sure have egg on your face!

Get a concept

In response to "Let's go further," I don't think you understand the concept of income tax. In our country, we pay taxes on income. Child labor was abolished years ago. Therefore, how would you propose charging income tax for a child? To the concept of limiting our number of children, or eliminating the benefits for our children, why don't we eliminate all extra deductions: no benefits for elderly, handicapped or children. While we're at it, let's get rid of Medicare, Medicaid, welfare, social security, and government grants for research and education? As we get older, we can again depend on our children to support us. If we don't have children, too bad, we're on our own. We can live in boxes or crates like those in the Third World, if we survive at all. On a personal note, children are the joy of the world. If you've never had any, you're missing the best part of life. I pity you.

Widen road

I would like to state that instead of patching up Hwy. 173, they ought to widen it. Or they ought to strap a few of the politicians who've allowed this rampant growth into the cars and let them sit in the traffic being generated now.

Antioch

Still waiting

Fox Lake, congrats to the officials who passed the ordinance about the loud, noisy music. I'm still waiting for an ordinance on people who leave their dogs tied up all day and night, barking, barking, barking. Spring Grove has had this for awhile. We'll catch up to the Millennium yet, if it kills us!

Fox Lake

SPEED: Racers feel thrill of competition

ous injury. He said he hardly notices the speed he is driving.

"When you are watching, it seems like they are going really fast. When you are racing it doesn't seem that fast," Moulis said.

He said the cost of racing even at the local level is high. He said it costs about $35,000 just for the sprint car.

Moulis said sponsors such as

Fox Lake Harbor, Casey's Corner, Avon Automotive and Lindy Miller Excavating have made it possible for him to race competitively.

Currently he leads the Willmot Speedway standings by 80 points. He was the track champion in 1992. He won the Interstate Racing Association title in 1992.

He says he would like to someday compete on a national circuit for a year.

"Working at Fox Lake Harbor, our main business is in the summer, so it makes getting away difficult. Some time I would like to take a year off and compete nationally," he said. Moulis feels his crew of John, Red and Rob Kirk and Donald Dodd make it possible for him to be a top competitor.

"They are the best crew around.

Big sale on little trees

Trees for Tomorrow's end of the season sale on a variety of tree seedlings is now in progress, according to "Trees" forester Sandy Lotto.

"This year, to make it simple, we're offering every variety we carry at 50 cents each until they're gone," said Lotto. "Choose from White Spruce, Red Pine, Blue Spruce, Paper Birch and Elite White Spruce Hybrids while they last."

Lotto said the seedlings are six to 10 inches tall and come shipped in the soil they were grown in.

"These 'containerized' seedlings have a better survival rate than bare root stock and can be planted into late fall," she said.

The seedlings are shipped UPS to anywhere in the country and typically arrive within a few days of the order.

Rigby's—Food for the entire family

It is irrelevant whether you are 90 or nine months, Rigby's Restaurant has it all! When they say it is a family restaurant, they are not kidding! Rigby's has separate menus for both children and seniors, as well as an adult menu which includes breakfast, lunch, and dinner. Don't forget Rigby's appetizers! Start off your day at Rigby's with their "egg-stra-ordinary, egg-stravaganza, eggs-ceptional" breakfast. You can have your eggs any way, or Rigby's has 23 different omelets to choose from. Rigby's does not stop at eggs, they also offer pancakes, waffles, French toast, or crepes. Any steak is available with breakfast as a side order.

Lunch is a treat at Rigby's where they use only 100 percent beef in all of their burgers. For the bigger appetites, try the 1/2 pound burgers. The Rigby's Burger is topped with your choice of cheese (American, Swiss or Cheddar), and served with French fries or fresh fruit, plus the choice of a bowl of soup or a tossed salad. For lighter appetites, try the 1/3 pound burgers.

There are just too many sandwiches to mention; steak and chop sandwiches, savory salad sandwiches, the "melt shop," and many hot sandwiches, chicken, pita and even croissant sandwiches.

Rigby's also has a wide variety of salads including Julienne Salads with turkey, ham, American and Swiss cheeses, hard boiled eggs, tomatoes, green peppers, cucumbers, sliced onion, green olives, over fresh lettuce. Other "must try" salads include the Olympic, Cajun, or the Caribbean Salad.

Soups are homemade at Rigby's where they also offer daily specials, fresh seafood, and a number of ethnic dishes. Dinners include steaks, seafood, as well as Mexican, Oriental and Italian dishes.

Rigby's offers cocktails, domestic and imported beers and house wines by the glass or half-carafe. Don't forget Rigby's own delicious dessert creations.

There are just too many delicious items on the menu, so it's hard to choose the best. Instead, drop in for breakfast, lunch and dinner and find out for yourself at 1910 E. Grand Ave., Lindenhurst. Rigby's is open seven days a week from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. For carry-out orders or more information, call (847) 356-4440.

HOROSCOPE

Aries — March 21/April 20

As the end of summer nears, so does the end of a romantic relationship. It was fun while it lasted, but don't be upset. He or she isn't the one for you. You'll meet your mate when you least expect it. As for your professional life, all goes well this week. Your efforts get you noticed.

Taurus — April 21/May 21

While your sign is the bull, you feel more like a lamb this week, Taurus. You meet someone who intrigues you, yet intimidates you, and you don't know how to react to him or her. Just be yourself, and you'll make a good impression. Gemini plays a key role later in the week.

Gemini — May 22/June 21

Things get a little overwhelming for you early in the week. You get overloaded with work, and no one has enough time to assist you. As for your personal life, it seems as if everyone needs your help — no matter how trivial a situation is. Keep your chin up, Gemini. Things will calm down by the week's end.

Cancer — June 22/July 22

Express yourself this week, Cancer. Don't keep your feelings bottled up inside; it only will make you feel worse. Whether it's a problem with a co-worker or a fight with a loved one, talk about the situation calmly. It will make you feel better and can make relationships stronger. Pisces plays an important role.

Leo — July 23/August 23

You're making the rules this week. Business associates come to you for answers to their problems, and loved ones look to you for guidance. Now's your chance to show how responsible you can be. However, don't let the power go to your head. Be loyal to your friends and honest to yourself.

Virgo — Aug 24/Sept 22

You have to make a big decision about your personal life early in the week, Virgo. Think about what you really want, and look at all the pros and cons. Once you weigh all of your options, you can make your choice and stand behind it. Cancer and Scorpio play key roles.

Libra — Sept 23/Oct 23

Your good nature wins you praise from co-workers and loved ones. They admire your optimistic outlook on life. However, an event in the middle of the week can get you depressed. Don't let it; try to stay upbeat. Loved ones are there to listen. Leo plays an important role.

Scorpio — Oct 24/Nov 22

Stand your ground when it comes to a confrontation at work. You know that what you've done is correct, and so do your superiors. As for your love life, take it easy this week. That person you've been seeing wants to step up the relationship. Think about what you really want before saying yes.

Sagittarius — Nov 23/Dec 21

It is an easy week for you, Sagittarius. All goes well professionally and personally. You make a good impression with superiors at work, and you meet an intriguing person who has an interest in you. Enjoy yourself, but don't make any rash decisions. Taurus plays an important role.

Capricorn — Dec 22/Jan 20

Early in the week, you take a few steps closer toward a goal you've set for yourself. Be proud, and continue to work hard. A loved one turns to you in a time of need. Don't let him or her down. Share your joy with him or her. Your efforts are sure to be appreciated.

Aquarius — Jan 21/Feb 18

You have free reign at work this week, Aquarius. Superiors put you in charge of a project, giving you a chance to show what an asset you are. However, don't get carried away. That special someone asks you a probing question. Don't try to avoid it; just answer it truthfully. Virgo plays a role.

Pisces — Feb 19/March 20

Your humor wins the heart of someone with whom you'd like to have a closer relationship. Be yourself, and show him or her who you really are. Don't worry — he or she will be impressed. Pressures at home get you stressed later in the week. Try to remain calm and cool.

Receive $4,000 towards custom options at Sutton on the Lake

For a limited time, value-conscious buyers will receive $4,000 towards custom options on selected homes at Sutton on the Lake in north suburban Round Lake. In addition, buyers who close on a new home before Sept. 30 have the opportunity to defer their payments until the first of the year.

Being developed by Sundance Homes, Sutton on the Lake is a picturesque 160-acre community surrounded by a park site, Hook Lake and a 40-acre lake that borders the southeast side of the community. As one of the best selling new home communities in Chicagoland, Sutton on the Lake combines old world charm with dramatic designs and a location that offers numerous amenities nearby.

The community will include 480 single-family homes in two series when complete. The Freedom Homes are priced from $117,990 to $135,990, and the Premier Collection is priced from $147,990 to $165,990. Seven floor plans are available and six professionally-decorated models are open.

According to Tom Small, division president for Sundance Homes, the special option package is an excellent opportunity for buyers to add upgraded features to their homes at no additional cost.

"With the beginning of a new school year, many buyers are looking for ways to save money," explained Small. "With selected homes, there is still time for buyers to move in before the school years starts and take advantage of the special incentives.

Sutton on the Lake features single-family homes that range from 1,218 to 2,107 square feet in size with three to four bedrooms; 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 baths; full basements; colonist trim and doors; kitchens with gas ovens, ranges, hood fans and built-in dishwashers; and two-car garages.

One of the more popular designs available is the Victory, a two-story home with 1,420 square feet of living space; three bedrooms with a fourth bedroom option; formal living and dining rooms; expansive family room with optional fireplace with entertainment center; master suite, with walk-in closet, optional volume ceilings and private bath access; and attached two-car garage, priced from $127,990.

"With a wide range of designs, buyers have the flexibility to select the best home to fit their needs," explained Small. "For example, by moving the washer and dryer units to the basement the utility room can be converted to a large butler's pantry. This is just one of the many options available in our homes."

Sutton on the Lake is located on Monaville Road, one mile west of Route 83. Sales center hours are from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily except on Fridays when the office is open from noon to 6 p.m. For more information, call, 265-6107.

Hedges can be real garden feature

A well-groomed hedge can be a real feature in the garden and much easier to maintain—apart from the occasional clipping, you can leave them to their own devices.

Unfortunately, they can take a long time to establish and there seems to be a king of "sod's law" for gardeners that says the nicer the variety, the harder it is to grow.

However, if you are fed up with rebuilding the panels after a strong wind or digging out rotten fence posts, the idea of a hedge may be appealing, either as a boundary or a garden feature.

Apart from latitude, you also need to consider site, soil, cost and how much clipping and care is required for your chosen hedge variety.

If the hedge is also going to be a boundary, you may be particularly keen to have something tall and sturdy, or even one which is prickly enough to deter intruders or keep animals on or off your land.

Prepare the site carefully—it's for life—and allow at least two feet of growing space within your boundary.

Double-dig the site and add plenty of well-rotted organic compost to ensure a strong and long-lived hedge.

Conifers are by far the most popular type because they are not only handsome but also fast growing, particularly in the case of the sturdy hybrid Leyland Cypress. This can put on two feet a year and create a thick hedge within a few years.

Unfortunately, while they are soaring skywards, they do not put down strong roots so they will need staking for the first two years.

The Yew is more traditional and takes longer to establish. It is a handsome variety when grown as a tall hedge.

You could also consider the following varieties:

Box—slow growing and makes an excellent hedge. Great for trimming geometric gardens and borders, but it is expensive.

Holly—Produces scented flowers and berries and is inexpensive and easy to grow. Looks bare and boring during the winter after shedding its leaves.

Beech—Not the most inexpensive choice, but it is beautiful and can be trimmed to keep its leaves through the winter months.

Honeysuckle—Certain varieties make cheap, medium-heights hedges and give off a lovely scent.

Privet—Very inexpensive and fast growing. However, it takes regular clipping to be kept neat and tidy.

Perennials add color, texture to gardens

Are your gardens looking nice, however, lack color at this time of year? If so, here are some suggestions to add color as well as texture to your gardens using perennial flowers (you know that pretty plant that comes up year after year!)

Many of the daylilies are in bloom now and are dependable year after year. If your a daylily fan, try to use early, mid and late flowering varieties in your gardens to lengthen the flowering time of this plant. A great companion plant to the daylilies are the ornamental grasses. Many varieties are beginning to show off their plumes now and will last well into the late fall, early winter.

Another great companion plant to the daylilies are the blackberry lilies which show a star-like flower in purple, orange or red. The flower curls around itself each night and emerges on sunny days. The Coreopsis "Moonbeam" as well as the Black Eyed Susans are flowering now and will last another four weeks, especially if they are dead-head when the flowers are spent.

Many varieties of the Buddleia (Butterfly Bush) have been flowering for the last few weeks and will continue to show off for another few weeks.

Sciabiosa, Sea Lavender, False-Dragonhead, and Blue Mist Shrub are all flowering now and will last another two weeks.

The Russian Sage in one's garden really looks great this time of the year, especially if it's a few years old. It's dark blue, spiked flowers reaches heights of three-inches and more and it's silvery foliage also adds interest. If you have a green thumb, the Hibiscus plant will grow in a protected area, and shows off white, pink and red flowers that are six- to eight-inches across and are stunning in one's garden. The fall flowering Aster buds are just beginning to swell and should open soon to show us an array of colors for the fall.

If you're lucky enough to have shaded areas, many of the Hostas are showing us their bold textured leaves in many colors of blue, green, yellow and white. Variegated varieties mixed with Coral Bells and Astilbe show us how well they look together.

Try and use some perennials in your gardens for color as well as texture and your gardens will begin to delight your senses.

Seniors gear up for second annual lifestyle expo

The second annual Senior Lifestyle Expo, scheduled for Sept. 4 and 5 at the Inland Meeting Center in Westmont, is set to be a spectacular event with many attractions for seniors and their families.

Presented by the Northeastern Illinois Area Agency on Aging, the two-day expo will feature nearly 100 exhibitors showcasing products and services that cater to the senior market.

In addition to the exhibits, the expo will feature about 20 seminars that will discuss the concerns of today's seniors (and their caregivers) such as new healthcare options, money management, the Internet and safe ways to exercise. One seminar, entitled "Top Ten List—Creative Strategies of Successful Caregiving," will help seniors and their families explore new ways to use available resources in making their lifestyle more enjoyable. Another seminar, entitled "50+ Money Management," will discuss investment strategies that will assist attendees in making the best choices for their investment dollars.

"We find that there are so many resources available to seniors that they are not full aware of," said Connie Kobitter, coordinator for the event. "For two days, expo attendees will be able to learn about many of these resources in areas such as healthcare, travel, housing, exercise, nutrition and finance."

For those who prefer participatory events, the Senior Lifestyle Expo will feature a country western ho-down complete with line dancing taught by the Windy City 2-Steppers. Other live entertainment includes performances by "UGUYZ," a mix of rock, R&B and Motown, and the "Time Steppers," a young-hearted group of energetic tap dancers.

The YMCA of Metropolitan Chicago will be entertaining active seniors by giving classes in aerobics, tai chi, a walking clinic and other exercise options. The expo will also feature a variety of health screenings, interactive games for seniors to enjoy and trip giveaways by Southwest Airlines.

All proceeds from the event benefit the Holiday Meals on Wheels Program, which provides hot, nutritious meals to home-bound seniors during the holiday season and weekends.

The Inland Meeting Center is located at 400 E. Ogden Ave., Westmont. Tickets are $3 per person and can be purchased at the event. For more information, call 1(800)528-2000.

Positive solutions for families facing Alzheimer's

"My husband Bud always loved music. He taught high school music and played saxophone in a Dixieland band. That was years before he got Alzheimer's. Bud retired 16 years ago, but sometimes he would forget he didn't play in the band anymore. He'd go out in the middle of the night as if he were leaving to perform."

I wouldn't even know he'd left.

That's when my daughter suggested ElderHaus. After 53 years of marriage, it was a hard decision to make—but, he's safer there."

ElderHaus provides a loving home for residents with Alzheimer's. Please call for more information.

'A Prescription for Life After Cancer'

Living life after cancer is a challenging and fulfilling experience which requires a special attitude, the right frame of mind, common sense, and a good sense of humor.

Cancer survivor and entrepreneur Barbara Goldberg, creator and owner of Hair Response, Inc., will share her prescription for a successful life after cancer during a free presentation Wednesday, Sept. 10, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Cancer Resource Center in Gurnee Mills (entrance H), 6170 W. Grand Ave., Gurnee.

"People who have experienced cancer deal with a lot of 'what ifs,'" Goldberg says. "What if I get so sick that I can't work? What if I can't care for my family? What if my insurance drops me? This kind of thinking keeps you from moving forward in a positive direction. It's very important to keep moving forward and to put out positive thoughts rather than negative ones."

Goldberg's prescription for life includes the following strategies:

- Involving family members and loved ones in the healing process.
- Dealing with the emotions of the cancer diagnosis.
- Visualization and meditation.
- Making the right treatment choices.
- Living in the moment and celebrating successes.
- The importance of relaxation and taking time for yourself.

To register for the program and for more information, call the Cancer Resource Center at (800)940-2822.

Aging parents caregivers for own parents

A group of age 60 plus adults were having their usual monthly luncheon—only this time their topic of conversation was different. In the past, they had discussed issues revolving around their children and grandchildren, but this time their issues centered around their own parent(s) who are age 85 plus, mainly about the kind of supports they might need for them in order to help them live as independently as possible.

This is a new '90s phenomenon. The so-called "sandwich generation" used to be in their '40s with concerns about their aging parents who were in their 60s. Today, the sandwich generation has been upgraded to persons in their 60s who have become the caregivers for those in their 80s and 90s.

The children of the people in their 60s (and 70s) who are in their 40s are not as concerned about their parents as in past generations, because they see them busily working out in the gym, attending classes and generally adopting a more active lifestyle.

Sheldon Shlossman, president of Traycee Home Care Services, a caregivers support agency which has a large presence in the north suburbs, states that increased demands for elderly supports come from the very people who, in the past, were the recipients of these services. According to Shlossman, "They are more stringent in their demands, perhaps because they can afford to spend more on these supports, and also because they see themselves as the consumers in the near future."

Cathy Medina, director of Community Relations with Traycee Home Care Services since its inception states that "Traycee's mission for the past 12 years has always been to provide individualized support in a home or health care facility for frail elderly, and that mission remains unchanged. What does change, however, is that because of greater mobility of families, we are providing more support services for elderly parents whose children live out town, and we are also responding to more requests for temporary support when family caregivers need some respite and vacation more frequently than did their own parents.

According to Blanche W. who took part in the lunchtime 60 plus luncheon group mentioned at the start of this article, "I just returned from Florida where I picked up my mother who had been living there for 25 years with my father who recently died. She has some blackout spells from time to time, has no friends or family in that area and cannot live alone.

She is now living in an apartment a few blocks from my home here on the North Shore and because of the supports now available to her, I can continue to "do lunch," and also engaging the leisure activities that I pursue since my retirement. I'm glad I'm living in the '90s!" Faye and Gloria, two other luncheon guests echoed Blanche's sentiments. They had recently returned from a trip abroad, feeling confident that their respective parents were cared for appropriately in their absence.

Shirley Steinberg, MA, a licensed social worker and consultant to Traycee Home Care Services notes that "due to current supports now available (60 plus) parents enjoy spending more quality time with their elders. They do not harbor the resentments and guilt that used to accompany overly burdened family caregivers in past years."

For further information about Traycee Home Care Services, call 432-5190.

Record sum raised to rebuild emergency care

Nearly 700 people, including cast members of the hit NBC-TV series, ER, thronged the ballroom of the Westin River North Hotel, as the Mount Sinai Medical Institute Council rolled out its "ER/Trauma Drama '97." The event raised a record $100,000 to rebuild emergency and trauma facilities at Mount Sinai Hospital Medical Center as part of its Campaign for Life.

Guests at the black-tie gala enjoyed a sumptuous buffet of hors d'oeuvres and desserts, silent and live auctions with fabulous prizes, and dancing until the wee hours to Voyager, a Bradley Young Orchestra.

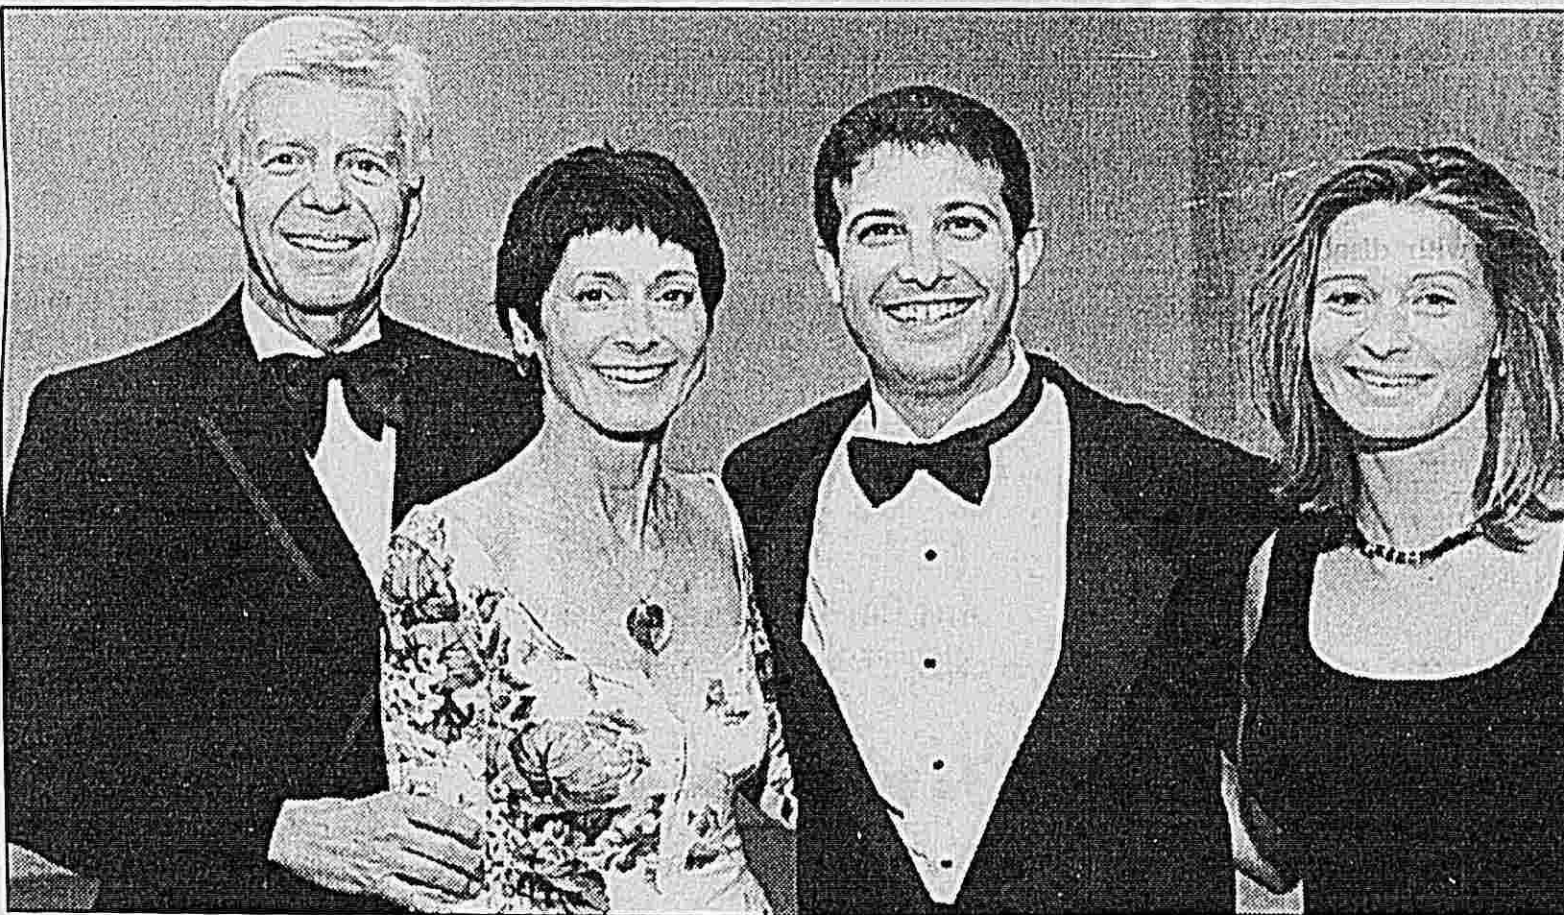

A high point of the evening occurred during the live auction as bidding mounted on a walk-on role in an ER episode. Four of the show's co-stars—Conni Marie Brazelton, who plays Nurse Conni Oligario; Laura Ceron, who plays Nurse Chuni Marquez; Ellen Crawford, who plays Nurse Lydia Wright, and Michael Genovese, who plays Officer Al Grabarski—cheered on the bidding, which netted $2,000 for Mount Sinai's emergency unit.

The Mount Sinai Medical Institute Council is a group of some 40 young professionals who volunteer their efforts to support Mount Sinai's Level I Trauma Center, which is one of only four remaining in the city. Each year Mount Sinai Hospital's emergency and trauma center provides round-the-clock services to more than 40,000 patients, including victims of expressway accidents.

Grayslake residents, Klaus and Karin Wisiol, left, were among nearly 700 guests at Mount Sinai Medical Institute Council's "ER/Trauma Drama '97." Wisiol is chairman of the board of Mount Sinai Hospital Medical Center. The Wisioles' daughter, Stephany, right, co-chaired the record-breaking event, which raised $100,000 to rebuild emergency and trauma facilities. aspects of dying and death. Through video and lecture presentations, potential volunteers are presented with information and an opportunity to share from their own experiences of dealing with information and an opportunity to share from their own experiences of dealing with illness and limitations. Its debut will take place during an open house being held Friday, Sept. 12, from 1 to 5 p.m. After this grand opening, the Resource Center, located at 401 S. Hager Ave. in Barrington, can be used by the public on Tuesday afternoons between 1 and 5 p.m. or by appointment.

New shelves, audio-visual equipment and library supplies have been made possible by a generous donation from the family of Mildred Lajcik, a former HNI patient. Lajcik was very interested in education, and her daughter Lorna, also a teacher, felt an educational center would continue her mother's interests. As a frequent visitor to the Resource Center, Lorna provides paintings done by her late mother to enhance the atmosphere.

Community hospice volunteers have also been instrumental in shaping this center. Barrington resident Ruth Silver coordinated the soft-tone color scheme that has created the warm, comfortable atmosphere. HNI volunteer Marilyn Marier of Arlington Heights and Lila Ostrand of Park Ridge have generously volunteered their time, transferring all the print and visual materials to a computerized card catalog, for easy retrieval. In 1996, the Service Club of Chicago donated funds for a binding machine and a major portion of the books housed in the center.

Resources of the Educational Center include books, videos, audiotapes, journals and article clippings on a variety of topics such as cancer, non-cancer diseases, loss, bereavement, children's bereavement, assisted suicide, and death and dying.

"HNI is pleased to make this center available to the public," said Acting Executive Director Linda DeTerlizzi. "It is our hope that this center will enable members of the community to have access to resources that will help them handle difficult end-of-life situations and issues."

The Hospice of Northeastern Illinois (HNI) is a not-for-profit, Medicare-certified community-based organization accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations (JCAHO). Serving more than 1,000 patients a year, HNI's purpose is to support terminally ill patients and their families. HNI has offices in Barrington and Woodstock. Due to the efforts of the Hospice Foundation of Northeastern Illinois, Inc., HNI never turns anyone away who might be in need.

Educational programs, seminars, information and speakers to address a variety of issues are also available. For additional information about this open house, hospice services, support groups, speakers or volunteer opportunities, call (800)425-4444.

Barbara Mandrell headlines LFH Women's Auxiliary Board benefit

Lake Forest Hospital's Women's Auxiliary Board President Chris Fisher announced its annual benefit will feature Barbara Mandrell in "An Enchanting Evening in the Forest" held at Onwentsia Club in Lake Forest, Saturday, Sept. 20.

Mandrell is a popular and talented veteran of show business. Whether performing solo or with her talented family or friends, she sings and plays a variety of instruments, including the steel guitar and saxophone. She was the first in the industry to win the Country Music Assn.'s coveted "Entertainer of the Year" award for two consecutive years.

Jo Terlatto, benefit chair, reported nearly 600 guests are expected for the event—which was underwritten in large part by Harris Bank of Lake Forest, wine importers Paterno Imports and the medical staff at Lake Forest Hospital. Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres begin at 6 p.m.

A silent auction—featuring such items as a Brunswick pool table, use of a Chicago Bull skybox, one week at the LaQuinta Home, four tickets to the Rosie O'Donnell Show and more than 100 one-of-a-kind and specially autographed bottles of wine from the private cellars of famous vintners.

Dinner, entertainment, and dancing follow the auction.

Tickets for the event are $250 per person. All proceeds benefit the Emergency Services fund at Lake Forest Hospital.

For tickets or more information, contact Sue Skinner at Lake Forest Hospital's Development, Marketing and Planning department at 234-6111, ext. 6933.

County officials say the voice of the people will not be ignored as Lake County gets ready to put forth a new ordinance guiding development in unincorporated areas.

"We're moving in the right direction; We're listening to the voice of the people. I can hear that cry," said Pam Newton, chairman of the Lake County Planning, Building & Zoning Committee.

The committee has been together for eight months now, and for the last six months has been working on a draft of the Unified Development Ordinance (UDO). The county is planning a series of meetings with government agencies, as well as with the public at large, to discuss the ordinance.

The UDO addresses a wide scope of regulations, from land use to natural resource protection, from stormwater management to affordable housing.

Newton noted the document is not for use by developers only.

"A lot of the users of our current zoning ordinance are just people who want to put up a shed or add to their house," she said. Newton added that current zoning ordinance, with more than 700 pages, is very difficult to navigate.

One of the aims of the new ordinance is to simplify the current ordinance, said Barry J. Hokanson, director of the Department of Planning and Development. The department and committee has been working with James Duncan and Associates, a consulting legal firm, which has extensive experience in land use.

Hokanson said Duncan and Associates has been able to make the ordinance more specific and easier to understand, while making the document more concise.

Newton said, in the current zoning ordinance, a classification such as suburban includes pages of uses from residential to commercial. The county aims to create a zoning map with more specific uses, which would be more compatible with neighboring properties and residents would more clearly understand what could be built next door to them.

A highlight of the ordinance includes measures towards natural resource protection. Lake County Principal Planner Sheel Yajnik explained the current ordinance only protects groves of trees, of eight or more. However, it doesn't matter if the trees are buckthorn or oak. The new ordinance would protect individual specimen trees or smaller clusters of large trees.

High-quality wetlands would also receive better protection by requiring developers to set aside a larger shoreline or buffer.

The new ordinance is stressing conservation developments, in which large areas of open space are preserved, while homes are clustered together.

The county hopes to promote more affordable housing through the ordinance. This would be accomplished through a number of strategies, including providing incentives to developers and promoting infill development — development or redevelopment in older subdivisions.

The county will also address stormwater management in this ordinance. Newton noted her commit-

Ex-school board member admits to molesting teen

By JASON J. KING
Staff Reporter

A Libertyville lawyer and former Libertyville High School board member admitted to molesting a 15-year-old female back in January.

Ross Heim, 49, who resides in Libertyville, was placed on two years probation and could possibly lose his law license. He pleaded guilty to felony aggravated criminal sexual abuse. The plea was negotiated and a battery charge was dismissed in exchange for the plea.

Heim was charged with abusing the girl, who has since turned 16, in his home on Jan. 8 the complaint filed against him said.

Assistant State's Attorney Christopher Stride said Heim immediately confessed to the allegations after being approached by state's attorney's investigator Mark Pleasant. Heim typed a full confession and statement of remorse in his law office after being approached by Pleasant.

"It was about as voluntary a confession as you're going to get," said Stride.

Stride said the charge of felony aggravated criminal sexual abuse carries a maximum sentence of between three to seven years but added that a prison sentence is not mandatory.

Stride said because Heim did not have a criminal history, and the fact that the alleged abuse was not an act of penetration, he was not given a prison term.

Heim, who was elected to the high school board in 1995, resigned from the board on Jan. 10, 1997, citing reasons of time commitment and the board's struggles with solutions to overcrowding.

The victim, who had monitored the proceedings but had not attended, approved of the proposed probationary sentence.

Stride called Heim's actions a "very unfortunate" situation. These situations, said Stride, "wreak untold havoc on people's lives."

Norton not asked to give blood

Libertyville asst. fire chief may face manslaughter in Grayslake cyclist hit and run death

By ELIZABETH EAKEN
Staff Reporter

The case surrounding Libertyville Assistant Fire Chief Kenneth Norton, 41, of Grayslake, is undergoing scrutiny. Norton was allegedly involved in an accident in which bicyclist Mark Capistrant, 43, of Grayslake, was hit by a driver and later died.

Norton pleaded not guilty to a charge of drunk driving in court last week, but others are wondering why he wasn't tested following the accident for the presence of alcohol or other substances.

Libertyville bicyclist Lawrence Garvin, a member of the Chicagoland Bicycle Federation, said he thinks something is being covered up and the accident isn't being adequately investigated. He is concerned as a bicyclist, that something like this could occur again, and is also concerned that Norton is on administrative leave receiving a full salary.

Following the accident which occurred July 30, Norton returned to the scene driven by his wife. He was charged with driving under the influence and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. Capistrant died the following day at Froedter Memorial Lutheran Hospital in Milwaukee of head and pelvic injuries.

Grayslake Chief of Police Dennis Koletsos wouldn't comment on the case, saying it is still under investigation. He did say their traffic research officer Roger Barette, whom he called one of the foremost traffic research experts in the state employed by the North West Traffic Institute, is working on the case. They sent evidence from the scene to the Illinois Crime

Lab and are waiting for results. The department will have to prove beyond a doubt it was Norton's car that hit Capistrant. Koletsos said they do have witnesses to the crash and all have been interviewed by the department.

Koletsos explained the procedures for drivers suspected of under the influence of alcohol or drugs. He said they are normally asked to submit to a breathalyzer test and if they refuse their license is automatically suspended. Norton was asked to take the test but refused.

If a driver is involved in a fatal or personal injury accident the officer can request a blood sample. The Grayslake officer didn't ask Norton to submit a blood sample. Koletsos said the law reads "the driver shall submit," to the test. "The realistic problem is finding a medical facility," he said because if a person refuses the test many won't draw the blood.

LAND USE: People to be heard

tee is aware of the diversity of the landscape throughout Lake County, hence the need for different regulations in different areas, regarding stormwater management.

"The Chain with its wetlands is not the same as Barrington with its rolling hills," said Newton. She noted the county recently required a developer to release slower flow rates into the Squaw Creek watershed.

Newton believes there will be many tiers of effect; she believes the entire county, not only unincorporated areas, will benefit.

"Once land use is coordinated, there will be better regional transportation, better flood control, better affordable housing, better natural resource protection and better sustainability for county wildlife," she said.

County officials are unsure how long it will take for a final draft of the ordinance and approval.

Hokanson noted, if it is well received, the process could go quickly.

"If we do a good job, all our pieces are in place, and people love it, it could go quickly, he said.

Thomas case continued in Warren Highway scandal

The case against former Warren Township Highway Department employee John Thomas will go to trial Sept. 30.

A continuance, requested by both the defense and prosecution, was granted last week.

Thomas, son of the deceased Warren Highway Commissioner Frank Thomas, is accused of misusing highway department funds for his own use from 1993-96.

Gurnee contractor Robert "Brad" Petersen will be able to do business and gain public contracts after he and his attorney agreed to a negotiated settlement in the Warren Township Highway Department scandal case.

Warren Township will not pursue further legal challenges against Petersen, unless he does not pay restitution in a swift manner.

"There is no need for board action. It is over and done with," Sue Simpson, Warren Township Supervisor, said.

Simpson told Warren trustees how township interests were represented as the Lake County State's Attorney consulted with them.

Petersen agreed to $6,000 in double billing over a five-year period, 1991-96. The township thought it was a $10,000 amount, citing four batteries, a rebuilt starter and one saw, all of which were billed to the township. The $10,000 amount was eventually agreed upon.

"We felt we had a very defensible case. It was an accounting error," Thomas Briscoe, attorney for Petersen, said.

Briscoe said Petersen had done work for the township for eight years with several thousand dollars of contracts for excavation work.

"He is a very reputable business man," Briscoe said.

Petersen does not admit guilt to the negotiated terms filed Aug. 7. He must perform 50 hours of community service and restitution.

"We do not want the restitution to drag on," Simpson said.

John Thomas, of Gurnee was charged with two counts of official misconduct from 1993-96.

Prosecutors say he purchased various personal items totaling $5,000 with highway department funds.

Bette Siegel and her daughter Cayce received sentences earlier for their involvement in the scandal.

In a new development, Simpson told the board Siegel, through her attorney, is trying to get the time on work release reduced. She had left the state for job training at Saturn, a Tennessee based car company. Her original date to start work release is Nov. 3.

The township board is expected to oppose any reduction of that time.

Siegel still will have to repay Warren Township on several fronts in a sentence handed down in court.

AT A GLANCE

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Hot air balloon race

Wauconda—Ten colorful hot air balloons will participate in a balloon rally on Sunday, Aug. 31, at Wauconda Orchards. The balloon launch, scheduled for 5:39 p.m., weather permitting, is being held in conjunction with Apple Fest at the orchard, 1201 Gossel Road, east of Fairfield Road and north of Bonner Road, host of the balloon event for the third consecutive year.

The balloons will launch in a hare and hound race, led by the orchard's apple balloon, 85-foot tall, that has become a "goodwill ambassador" for six years and flies throughout the Chicago metropolitan area.

Apple Fest kicks off with a 7 a.m. breakfast, followed by an annual pig roast at 11 a.m. Family entertainment includes a craft show, pony rides, hay rides, children's activities, a petting zoo and live entertainment. For further information, contact the orchards at 525-8553.

Ban on brick mailboxes

Lake Zurich—Officials have placed an Aug. 31 deadline on the construction of any new decorative brick mailboxes built in the village right-of-way, while allowing all existing ones to remain.

"It would seem to me, that the removal of these would be way out of line at this point," said Trustee Jim Weekly. "They do seem to enhance the property and the general appearance of the neighborhood," added Trustee Steve McAvoy.

The mailboxes were never permitted by the village, and were all slated to be removed or have the owners participate in an extensive indemnity insurance program by Oct. 31. An official village vote on the ban will take place Sept. 2.

Waterway Agency hires director

Fox Lake—Following the review of 53 applications from across the continent, the Fox Waterway Agency Board has selected its new executive director.

Ingrid R. Enriquez, 32, of Harvard, was unanimously confirmed in the position by the agency's board at its Aug. 14 meeting, held in its headquarters in Fox Lake.

Currently employed by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Enriquez is expected to begin work at the Fox Waterway Agency on Sept. 8. Her annual salary is to be between $53,000 and $55,000, depending upon a final determination of her benefits package.

Crafts show is start of holiday buying

Antioch—Holiday gift buying begins in September. For Antioch Township residents, it can begin at the annual fall Arts and Crafts Faire in downtown Antioch September 6 and 7 on Toft Street.

Efforts to build the fair into a dominant weekend attraction continue to be implemented by Chamber of Commerce and Industry officials. This approach is showing results, according to Arts and Crafts Faire organizers.

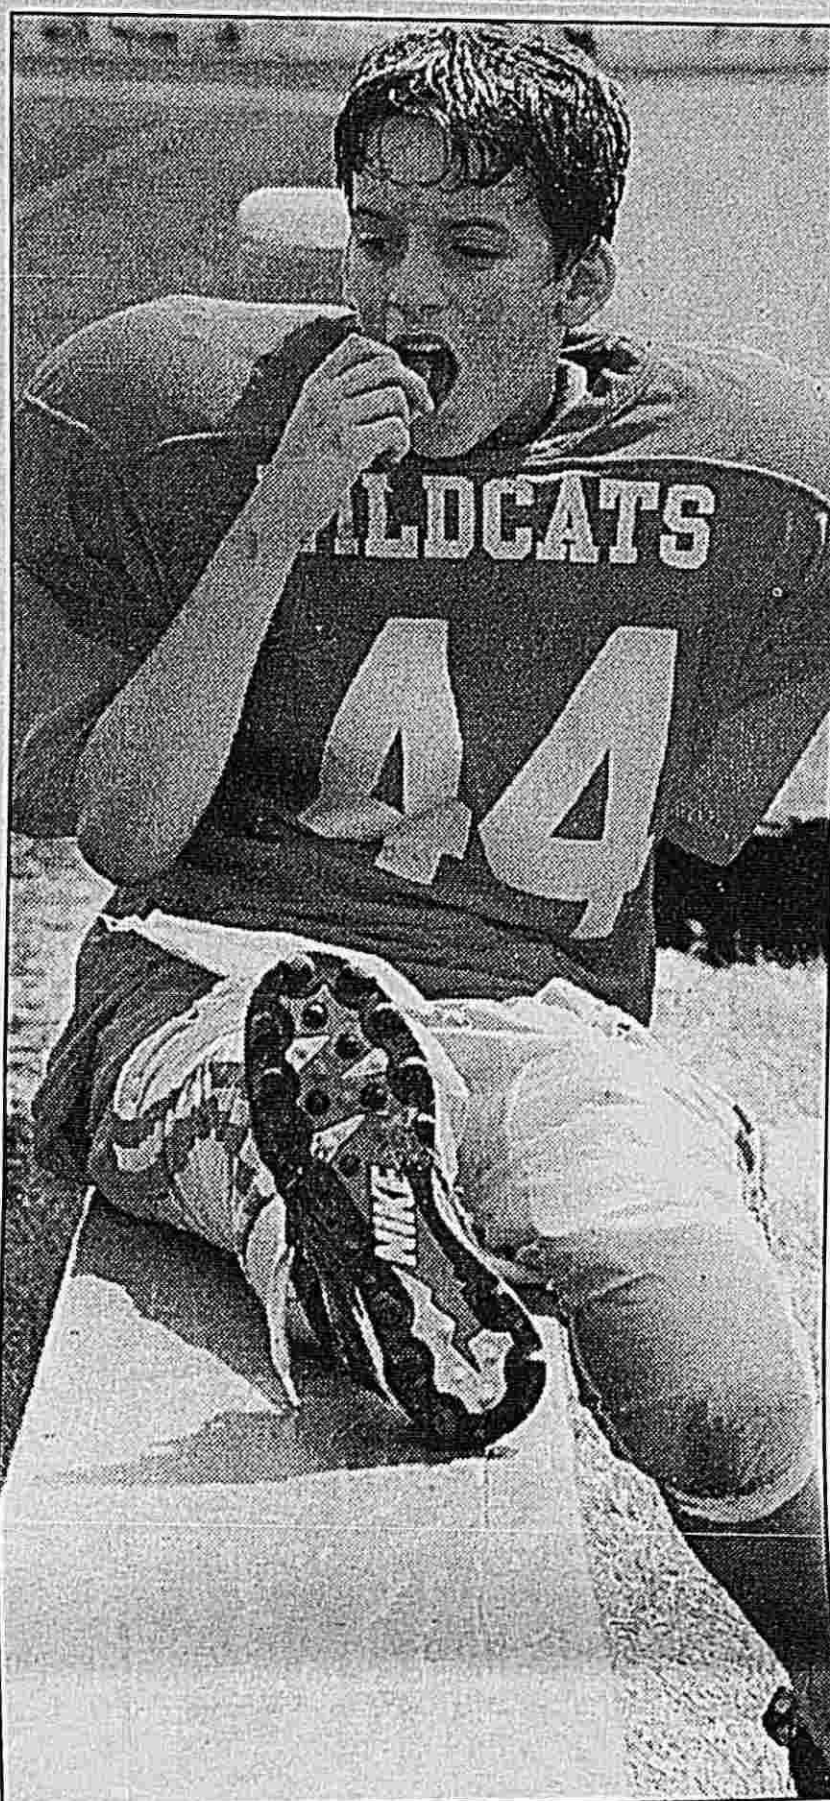

"We're approaching it more aggressively," said Dan Sills of Betty Sills Gallery in downtown Antioch. The result is that every year the fair is better and the people who attend it find more to buy.

The fall show has been more aggressively advertised than the Spring fair was. The Chamber is sending direct mail advertising to areas in Antioch Township not previously covered by direct mail. There's an extra 8,000 households in Lindenhurst and Lake Villa Sills said and the Chamber is going to reach them with its fair advertising, or at least those in zip code area 60046. This goes beyond the mailing done for the Spring fair. The Chamber, at that time, mailed announcements of the Arts and Crafts Faire to 7700 households in the 60002 zip code to ensure that people know about it.

He expects the 1997 Fall Arts and Crafts Faire to be as good as the Spring fair and to be better than last year's Fall fair. "There are artists coming who have not been here before," he said. To him that is important because it not only brings in fresh art, but it also signals that artists speak well of their experience here in Antioch.

District 76 to manage crisis

Mundelein—District 76 School Board officials will meet further September 10 to discuss program reduction strategies if the 49 cent education fund tax increase in the November 4 referendum is not passed by voters.

"The referendum must pass November 4 or there will be substantive reductions in programs and services," Superintendent Gary Clair said. The September 10 meeting at 7:30 at West Oak Middle School is expected to provide additional feedback from interested parents and community residents.

The school board has notified the news media that "locally funded programs such as library, foreign language, extra curricula programs, class size issues and supplies-equipment purchases were discussed as areas for reduction or possible elimination" at the August 19 board meeting. "Decisions are to be made September 10 that will have bearing on the 1998-1999 school year," said Clair.

Another special meeting for the final hearing on the budget is scheduled for September 23 at 7 p.m. at West Oak Middle School.

There are approximately 1160 students in three District 76 schools: Fairhaven School, Diamond Lake School, and West Oak Middle School.

Developer tree cutting questioned

Round Lake—Mayor James Lumber was upset officials from Penguin development did not notify village officials before cutting down trees last week making way for the massive Valley Lakes subdivision.

"I am upset with the process," Lumber said. "We should have been notified."

Lumber said the tree ordinance calls for the developer to notify the village where they are cutting trees before it is done. Lumber is unsure if the trees that should have been saved were cut.

Ray Wolfel, building and zoning officer, is expected to report to Lumber after he returns from vacation Sept. 3.

When built out, the subdivision will have 1,828 units on a 875-acre parcel.

Road work getting done

Lake Villa Township—Highway Commission Jim Jorgensen is working on completing projects which were neglected for years.

Heading the list is a major drainage project for the flood-plagued Chesney Shores subdivision adjacent to Fox Lake. Jorgensen has been working with Lake County Stormwater Management Agency and Fox Lake Hills Property Owners Association to come with a permanent solution.

Highway crews already installed a dirt berm which is helping about nine homes, according to Christine Ostertag.

They also replaced drainage pipes along Marilyn and Maurine drives in West Miltmore to resolve a long standing flooding problem in that area.

Park district fires executive director

Grayslake—Grayslake Park District top official Executive Director John Wilson was notified last week of the board's decision not to renew his contract which expires in May 1998. According to the terms of his contract he was to receive 180 days notice if his contract wasn't renewed.

Wilson had served the district since June of 1988 focusing mainly on land acquisition and procuring grants for the district which received a tremendous amount of development in the last 10 years.

The day prior to Wilson's dismissal, board member Russell Chamberlin submitted his resignation basing his decision on what he cites as unwillingness to do park business in the open.

"I am convinced that the majority of decisions on Park District business aren't being made in the boardroom and that meetings are being held without my presence or even my awareness," wrote Chamberlin. Foster Paulette, president of the park board of commissioners denied their holding meetings without Chamberlin in attendance. In response to the board discussion of letting Wilson go he said they had only discussed it on an individual basis. Currently Robert Lashbrook is serving as interim executive director of the district. He is a former director of Hanover Park and Crystal Lake park districts.

Prairie Material Sales CEO dies

Fox Lake—The long-time president and CEO of a national firm operating facilities in Fox Lake has died as the result of a car accident.

John W. "Jack" Oremus, of Bridgeview-based Prairie Material Sales Inc., the nation's largest, privately-held, ready-mix cement company, died on Aug. 18 in an accident near the I-294 and I-88 interchanges. He was 60.

"He will be impossible to replace," said Jerry Krozel, company vice president. "If you had a problem, he would always counsel you on how to get the best out of yourself to solve it."

Oremus had taken command of the company about 20 years ago, building the firm started by his father, John A. Oremus, on a policy of personal service.

"He always felt that we had one boss, and that it was not him, but the customer," Krozel said.

Services were held in Bridgeview on Aug. 23. Oremus is survived by his father, wife, five children, 12 grandchildren, two brothers and one sister.

Krozel noted that the company had firm plans to continue operations at its facilities at 128 Honing Road in Fox Lake.

Tree paradox confounds society

What a contradiction! Trees are revered and reviled at the same time in our locality. Trees are the first victims of the developer's bulldozer, yet among the most treasured possessions of the new homeowner. Village officials enact ordinances to curb tree branches at the same time so many new householders are seeking growth stimulents to ensure health and long life for trees in their yards.

Lake County Forest Preserves deserve commendation for staging a contest to identify the biggest and the best of county tree specimens. We are encouraged when Midwestern Regional Medical Center plants a tree to commemorate each cancer patient who is still alive five years after diagnosis. The facility now has a grove of 292 trees.

Save a life. Save a tree. They're both living!

Flood study fund has bake sale flavor

In a sort of "pass the hat" spirit, the Lake County Stormwater Management Commission (SMC) is soliciting participation from five units of local government to fund a regional flooding survey. Director Ward Miller gamely describes contributions sought of approximately $45,000 each as being in "self interest."

Merits of the study are obvious. Current flood maps and data are hopelessly outdated. The only way to solve flooding problems is through a regional approach. The rub on this project, as we see it, is the method of funding. We're just not comfortable with a tax-supported agency passing the hat to fund itself. Maybe a bake sale next time? A flea market?

Governments being solicited are Wauconda and Grant townships and the villages of Wauconda, Island Lake and Volo. The general area covers three basins known for drainage and pollution problems. Part of the area—Slocum Lake—has had serious flooding.

As an arm of county government, SMC should be funded through the normal budgetary process. County fiscal policy, though, has been to keep SMC "poor," limiting the agency to operational monies only out of a fear that the agency might put the brakes on growth and development. Odd, but that's Lake County politics.

Paradoxically, basin and watershed studies could well provide information that could quicken the pace of development. It's the classic Catch 22 situation. Since townships have no control over land use, it's difficult to see how they could benefit, except as Miller poses it "as an investment in self interest." We happen to feel that SMC special projects should be funded by the county and not reduced to panhandling.

Shorter summer causes limp feeling

What kind of a summer has it been? Short, for one thing. Cool and damp, for another. Don't talk in Lake County about global warming. We could have used more summer sizzle!

To determine whether fall is already upon us, there's been mention of extra fuzzy woolly bears, sightings of furry creatures with flourishing coats, reports of geese flying in V formation and acorns dropping off the oaks earlier than usual.

Is there any better sign that the season is changing than kids trudging back to school? The clincher is that Monday, August 25, was the deadline for filing nominating petitions for the November board of education elections. Bet you weren't prepared for that!

So put away the shorts and sandals. Stow the cooler and beach towels. If summer was short, then fall is early. Bank on it.

VIEWPOINT

Edgar weighs daunting tasks

Gov. Jim Edgar, whose carefully trimmed and well sprayed locks became a symbol of his disciplined and measured approach to government, has been assigned some heavy tasks by editorialists and Springfield watchers for his remaining 15 months in office.

With the governor already taking a giant step toward life after politics, the sages want their badly bruised governor to dig in again on the "unfinished business" of school funding reform and clean up the sleazy way gubernatorial campaigns are financed in Illinois.

Fat chance. Hello, soothsayers. The monumental task of changing school funding and campaign fundraising had more to do with Edgar's self-imposed retirement than anything. That, and the natural desire of a man with a scarred heart desiring to see his grandchildren get to their college years.

A good and decent man, Jim Edgar lost his conservative Republican bearings in espousing an income tax hike plan to funnel more money into schools. The Lake County GOP delegation, led by State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) and House Minority Leader Bob Churchill (R-Lake Villa) was in the vanguard of GOP dissidents. And rightly so. Suburban schools and suburbanites had nothing to gain with the Edgar plan. Quickly following the school funding battle was the governor's testimony in the influence peddling scandals involving Management Services of Illinois (MSI), although the governor personally was unscathed.

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

What Edgar learned from the two experiences is that in high level politics friends aren't forever and that he's had his fill of the way big-time state campaigns are funded in Illinois, essentially putting the "squeeze" on the firms and people doing business with the state.

Life in the governor's mansion often gets rough and tumble. Jim and Brenda Edgar know all too well. The accolades coming Edgar's way upon his retirement announcement were well founded and, in the whole, deserving of a man who has spent his entire adult life in government.

There must have been a bitter-sweet side, though, to the plaudits.

The youth of America are outstanding young people, testifies Command Master Chief Rick Sheridan of the Recruit Training Command at Great Lakes Naval Training Center. "They're great kids," asserts Sheridan, who greets about 1,800 young men and women weekly starting Navy life. Sheridan has the direct responsibility for the training and well being of about 11,000 recruits at any single time. Anyone want to change jobs?

'97 alum ponders '01 milestone

By SCOTT T. HOLLAND

Look out world, here we come.

That's pretty much the attitude that the high school class of '97 had last June as they graduated. Still a good four years from the real world, we now prepare to put those words into action. We're coming 580 from Libertyville, countless others from around the country.

We've been told we have the world at our fingertips. We just came off a year as the top dogs at our respective high schools. Based solely on age, we received privileges and benefits. We were in charge, and we loved it.

Look out, here comes the world. Back to being freshmen, we must re-learn patient submission. Those that are older than us are closer to the real world we've been told to shake down. It's not our time yet, we have much to learn. We have not only the lessons from textbooks and professors, but the lessons about life; about living out of our parents' houses, buying our own toothpaste and setting our own bed times.

Look out world, here comes a confused mass of eagerness. How do we deal with this catch-22? On one hand, we feel the need to hit.

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Labor Day launch for County board seats

Ambitious Mark Ratfelders is taking aim at the Lake County Board as his next political domain after six years as a Gurnee Village trustee.

In an early August announcement, the Chicago based financial analyst said he'll need a head start to unseat an incumbent in mostly Warren Township Dist. 7. Ratfelders' target is giant killer Al Westerman, who KO'd the powerful County Board chairman last year in an upset of historic proportions.

While Ratfelders is expressing confidence with a platform of economic growth and environmentalism, Westerman won't be taken unawares. For starters, he has prepared for a tough re-election run by giving up his land resources job to serve full time. Also, Westerman has one-upped Ratfelders' strategy that his victory resulted as much from his opponent's negatives as his own positives.

"I'm aware of that and I'm working on it. I'll be prepared," asserted Westerman, who is carving out a role as a conciliator and consensus builder for the board's unwieldy independent Republican faction.

McRae deadline

Former Mundelein Mayor and County Board Rep. Colin McRae has given himself a September deadline to decide whether he'll try to regain the Fremont Township seat lost to Diana O'Kelly in 1994. Whenever McRae's opposition is mentioned, O'Kelly responds, "Let him run. I beat him with 66 percent of the vote when no one knew me." Now O'Kelly is virtually a household word in Fremont Township.

Non-updated information—Anyone who checks Lake Zurich's on-line home page on the Internet may come upon some interesting information. For instance, look at the public works page and you will see David L.

McRae: Sets Sept. deadline to regain seat

Newton: Says ears are open

Talbott listed as public works director.

Talbott resigned Nov. 15, 1996, and was replaced with Victor C. Ramirez, now the director of public works/engineering, this past April 7.

Road show

Lake County Planning, Building and Zoning Committee chairman Pam Newton is taking the county's new unified development ordinance on the road. She is hoping to gain as much input as possible from county residents. She is also hoping to persuade municipal officials throughout the county to listen up to the new standards.

"We want this to be an inclusive document," Newton said. "If someone brings something to our attention, we are going to check it out." Newton says the committee would rather delay the approval of the document then put another set of rules on the books that don't reflect Lake Countians' true feelings.

Let's hope she can do it. The group will be making presentations throughout the fall.

National appointment

Lake County Board member Angelo Kyle of Waukegan has been appointed to the National Assn. of Counties' (NACo) Board of Directors.

Kyle said he looks forward to serving his one-year term. "It will be a privilege to be able to serve in this capacity—I'm ecstatic about this appointment."

As the organization's primary governing body, the board's main goals are to determine NACo's future and help counties better serve their constituents. Further, the 102 member board provides guidance to the association and oversees its budget, planning and day-to-day activities.

The Clinton movie: Who will play Bill?

Picture this: A few years from now you're watching a movie about former President Clinton and former First Lady Hillary, and they are being portrayed by Academy Award winning actors Tom Hanks and Meryl Streep.

Well, that's the way Mr. Clinton would like it to happen. In a recent interview, columnist Gene Siskel asked him, "If they did a movie of the William Jefferson Clinton story, who would be the actor you'd like to see play you?"

"Probably Tom Hanks," said Clinton. "We don't look alike, but I know him and respect him as a person, as an actor, very much."

"And I think he has shown a range that's quite remarkable," Clinton added. "If someone were trying to play me and actually go through this roller-coaster job, I would want a person with a lot of range and feeling."

Personally, it turns me off when there isn't a physical resemblance between the actor and the person being depicted, so I think Tom Hanks should be ruled out of this future role.

Siskel also asked Clinton, "Who would you suggest to play your wife?"

Clinton: "That's even more difficult. Maybe Meryl Streep. She is a phenomenally gifted actress."

Clinton and Siskel were discussing the several recent movies about fictitious American presidents. Among those playing the part have been Michael Douglas, Harrison Ford, Kevin Kline and Bill Pullman, all heavy hitters.

The movies once were kind in their portrayals of presidents. The old Abe Lincoln films gave us flattering performances by Walter Huston, John Carradine, Henry Fonda and Raymond Massey.

Actors Martin Sheen and William Devane did passable jobs in the role of John F. Kennedy while Blair Brown and

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

Jaclyn Smith captured the beauty and dignity of Jacqueline Kennedy.

However, Hollywood pilloried and skewered Richard Nixon in "The Final Days," starring Lane Smith, and "Nixon," starring Anthony Hopkins.

Although Clinton has a flock of Hollywood friends, will the movies sugarcoat his story? When I asked a Republican friend whom he thinks should play Clinton, he said, "Any of the Three Stooges."

The Ronald Reagan story still hasn't been done. Too bad, Reagan the actor could have played himself. Come to think, the Clintons are such good actors they could play themselves, too.

You can try playing this game with your friends (who would you want to star in a movie of your life?), but don't expect straight answers. A friend who makes me think of Charlton Heston laughed and said, "Don Knotts."

My wife Janice gave me straight answers. She said three actresses immediately came to mind: "Natalie Wood, when I was younger, Diane Keaton and Debra Winger. See any similarity?"

Sure do, and Keaton and Winger are two of my favorites.

When I asked Janice which actor she would pick to portray me (hoping she would say Robert Redford or Kevin Costner), she said Bob Newhart.

"Or," she added, "maybe that crazy guy who was in 'My Favorite Year,' Peter O'Toole."

I'm flattered. We mild-mannered Bob Newhart types like to think that down deep we're really wild and crazy guys.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Less jails, not more

It was reported that a new county jail may be needed to handle the anticipated overcrowding in the next year or two. Should the citizens of Lake County be alarmed? Is the sheriff predicting a crime wave sweeping our communities?

May I suggest, that instead of planning to spend millions of citizen tax dollars on a new jail. Alternatives, such as community policing and a therapeutic community approach to fighting crime, drugs and gangs be instituted.

Education and treatment is the key toward giving individuals the opportunity to lead crime free lives; and the participation of concerned citizens in making our streets safe will reduce the need for more jails.

Richard Jablonski
Gurnee

Editor's note: Richard Jablonski unsuccessfully sought the office of sheriff as a Democratic nominee.

Raftis slurs deplored

I would like to present a few facts relative to the County Board. One point that has to be clarified is the recent appointment of Richard Raftis to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Not to discount, the fact that he is fully qualified to fill that appointment, one must understand the exact duties of the ZBA. The commission's task is to review all applications to ensure that they meet the requirements according to the county's zoning code.

All individuals appearing before the zoning board give their testimony under oath. If you follow the vote of the ZBA, it is almost always a unanimous decision. Generally speaking, one individual is not going to influence the other members of that board.

The ZBA is guided by chairman Clayton Christensen, who based on his past accomplishments, 20 years of service to the people of Lake County, has always displayed honest and unbiased characteristics. The ZBA then sends its recommendation to the Planning and Zoning committee as well as the County Board. The P and Z committee then makes its recommendations to the County Board, who, in entirety makes the final decision. Further, that 10 percent of building is within unincorporated Lake County while 90 percent of building is within Municipalities.

Let us not be a part of this individual's character assassination. If Sandy Cole should be defeated, does that mean she would not be qualified to serve on the soil and water conservation board? Should we not be fair in our judgments and decisions?

Another fact that I would like to clarify is categorizing me as "Pro-development." I am presently working on the wetlands initiative in Northwest Waukegan. Objectively, the project will preserve natural resources, protect wetlands and open space, prevent flooding and establish a Waukegan based forest preserve. This certainly doesn't warrant the label of "Pro-development."

I campaigned on the issue that there has to be a balance of "green and blacktop," and I still advocate those same issues. Growth has to be done wisely and gradually. I believe that a lot of issues can be resolved with the advent of the new Unified Development ordinance.

COMMENTARY

the ground running, to make an impact and to continue to change the world. On the other hand, we have to sit back and soak in the college experience. How can we alter the course of history when some of us have to learn to do our own laundry? We're no longer first chair players or starters on varsity. We're in a world where people are bigger, faster, smarter and more experienced.

We've said our painful goodbyes to our dearest friends, but we look forward to meeting new friends that we'll have to say painful goodbyes to in four years. As much as we'd like to believe we don't, we still live at home. We're far away from the prospect of mortgages or a flat in the city. We're light years away from getting married and starting a family. A real job in the real world seems as far away as Social Security.

But then, how distant did such milestones as driver's licenses and graduation seem in the fall of our 1993? When they showed us videos about enjoying the best years of our lives, it seemed like four years was forever. As we learned in June, those years sped by much quicker than was originally assumed. So, what makes us think that these four will be any different? Just because the future that lies ahead now is a scarier prospect doesn't mean it will wait any longer.

But hey, we didn't survive four years of high school by worrying about the future. It's too early to say goodbye to people we haven't met. It's ludicrous to long for a youth that we have not yet spent. We must "live in the now" and take college life a day at a time. Just as high school was a new experience every day, so will college be.

True, in four years we'll be vastly different people, what this society calls adults. But we'll still be only 22, young and with the world at our fingertips. We'll be the top dogs, with privileges and benefits. This time, though, we'll give the world some advance notice. Look out, we're coming soon. The class of '01.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Words of Wisdom XIX

Frequently during the months when I must write five weekly columns, I turn to quotation of famous folks. Wise words are always food for thought and a good quote can punch up an article or add power to a speech.

There are many sources of such quotations. I have four good books with more than 35,000 quotes on hundreds of topics in my office. These books contain the wise sayings of great statesmen and philosophers, the wit of comedians and entertainers and the common sense of sage writers and orators.

I also have a file wherein I keep good advice and wise words that have no known author. Wisdom without attribution. This week's column is drawn entirely from the pens of those two famous authors "anonymous" and "unknown." I hope you enjoy them.

Serious thoughts

- Three keys to a happy life: hands the work, a mind that thinks and a heart that loves.
- The reason dogs have so many friends is because they wag their tails and not their tongues.
- There are two great fools: He who trusts no one and he who trusts everyone.
- A smile is a gently curved line that sets a lot of things straight.
- Wise is the man who builds friendships rather than wealth.
- It is fine to believe in yourself, if you're not too easily convinced.
- Do well small tasks now, and great things will come to you later, asking to be done.
- When you have nothing to say, say nothing.
- Short, kind words have endless echoes.
- Even if you spill the pail of milk, keep feeding the cow.
- If you want to know how to run a big business, ask a man who's never owned one.
- It pays to advertise. There are 26 mountains in Colorado higher than Pike's Peak.
- Most successful people don't quit at quitting time.
- In business, as in forest fires, big problems always start out small.
- If you're not willing to write it down and sign it, you probably shouldn't say it.
- You have a brain in your head and you walk on two feet; you can choose where you go as you travel life's street.
- If you enjoy the shade, plant a tree.
- Sometimes opportunity knocks very softly.

On the lighter side

- Sign in an empty store window: "We undersold everyone."
- Teenager to parent: "If I can't use the car tonight, may I borrow your wallet?"
- You can rely on a rabbit's foot if you like, but remember, it didn't work for the rabbit.
- There are days when all goes well; but don't be frightened, it won't last.
- A learned economist wrote a 200-page book titled "A Short History of Money." A wise editor shortened it to six words: "I had some, now it's gone."
- I don't mind telling you exactly what I think. I think I'm undecided.
- Now that I'm retired, I'm still kicking... but I'm not raising much dust.
- It's hard to believe we could rack up our federal debt by buying everything from the lowest bidder.
- If money grew on trees, some people wouldn't shake a limb to get some.
- A jackass in a tuxedo is still a jackass.
- If you're skating on thin ice, skate real fast.

Don't wait until 1998

Federal mandates set forth by the USEPA will impact all underground storage tank owners next year. In response to these USEPA regulations, the Office of the Illinois State Fire Marshal (OSFM) has launched a statewide effort to gain compliance and to help keep gas stations open for business.

Under regulations issued by the USEPA eight years ago, USTs installed before Dec. 22, 1988, must be protected against corrosion, spills and overfills by the federal deadline date of Dec. 22, 1998. Unprotected USTs must be upgraded, replaced or properly closed by that date. Tanks installed after Dec. 22, 1988, must have those protections in place at the time of installation.

OSFM will be sending letters to owners and operators of underground storage tanks reminding them that the deadline is near. USEPA will not extend the deadline, and the state of Illinois does not have the authority to extend it. OSFM inspectors will also visit facilities over the next several months to help get the word out.

"The longer you wait to upgrade your tanks, the more likely it is that they may leak and contaminate the environment," said Jim McCaslin, OSFM's director of Petroleum and Chemical Safety. "Waiting also increases the risk of delays in getting your system upgraded, which can mean higher costs."

"OSFM is committed to working with UST owners and operators to achieve compliance with these requirements. I must emphasize; however, OSFM is also committed to enforcing those requirements where UST owners and operators ultimately fail or refuse to comply," stated McCaslin.

For more information on the 1998 deadline, call Jim McCaslin, OSFM Div. of Petroleum and Chemical Safety at 1(800)851-2119.

Executives bending the rules

Survey reveals prevalence of flexible hours program

For a growing number of companies today, the phrase "9 to 5" may soon become an anachronism. In a recent nationwide survey, 84 percent of executives polled said their firms now offer either a formal or informal "flexible hours" program for their employees. Another progressive employment practice, telecommuting, is also becoming more widespread. Eighty-seven percent of executives predicted an increase during the next five years in the number of employees who will telecommute to work.

The survey was developed by OfficeTeam, a leading staffing service specializing in highly skilled temporary office and administrative professionals. It was conducted by an independent research firm, which polled 150 executives from the nation's 1,000 largest companies.

Respondents were asked: "Does your firm currently either a formal or informal 'flexible hours' program?"

Their responses:

- Informal program—47 percent
- Formal program—37 percent
- Neither—12 percent
- Don't know—4 percent

Respondents were also asked: "In the next five years, do you think the number of employees telecommuting to work will increase or decrease?"

Their responses:

- Increase strongly—35 percent
- Increase somewhat—52 percent
- No change—9 percent
- Decrease somewhat—4 percent
- Decrease strongly—0 percent

"Many companies are departing from the traditional '9 to 5' work day in favor of more flexible options," said Diane Domeyer, executive director of OfficeTeam. "Technology has been the catalyst for this change—wide area networks, wireless communication and the Internet are enabling remote access to the office for employees who travel regularly in their jobs, work flexible hours or telecommute."

Domeyer points out that flexibility holds great appeal for professionals balancing career and personal demands. To accommodate these needs, businesses are offering more innovative work schedules, not necessarily as an altruistic measure, but as good business practice. "These new programs also enhance recruitment and retention efforts, which are particularly critical in today's low unemployment environment," she added.

The key to ensuring the success of flextime and telecommuting initiatives, notes Domeyer, is to have clear-cut guidelines.

"Whether they're working at home or in the office, employees need to understand their employers' expectations. As early as the interview stage, companies can make it clear that, while the hours and location may change, standards of performance and quality remain the same."

Jennifer Agha, OfficeTeam's division director, said, "Many businesses interested in implementing flexible hours and telecommuting programs are experimenting with these new options and gauging the impact on productivity before deciding whether to implement the policy companywide."

There are more than 150 OfficeTeam locations throughout the United States and Canada.

Nominations sought for fourth annual 'Illinois Family Business of the Year'

Which family businesses are the best in Illinois? Help determine who they are by submitting nominations to the 1997 Illinois Family Business of the Year Awards program, co-sponsored by the Loyola Univ. Chicago Family Business Center and the Arthur Andersen Center for Family Business.

All family businesses headquartered in Illinois are eligible for this fourth annual competition. Nominations, which must be received by Wednesday, Sept. 3, may be made by anyone: employees, colleagues, and family business owners themselves. Past winners include Azteca Foods, Baird and Warner, Follett Corp., Arthur J. Gallagher and Co., Officer Funeral Home, and Crane Carton.

"The awards program recognizes the significant and positive contributions made by large, medium, and small family businesses in Illinois," said Kellie E. Leeper, a spokesperson for the Loyola Family Business Center. "More than 90 percent of all businesses are family firms and employ more than 60 million people. They deserve far more recognition."

Awards will be presented in three categories: Small (companies with fewer than 50 employees); Medium (50 to 250); and Large (more than 250). Entrants will be judged on how successfully they have combined family and business, multi-generational family business involvement, contributions to the industry and community, and innovative business strategy.

Once nominations are received, an application will be sent to the nominated business. Judging will be conducted by professionals in various fields and family-business owners. Applications must be received at the Loyola Family Business Center no later than Friday, Sept. 12.

Awards will be presented at a gala dinner at 6 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 20, at The Westin Hotel, 900 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago. The program is sponsored by Harris Bank, McBride Baker and Coles, Mesirow Financial, the Association Management Center, and Bell Litho, Inc. Edsel B. Ford II of Ford Motor Co. will be the keynote speaker.

"It's wonderful that we honor businesses that achieve economic success and still maintain a strong family culture along with the deep commitment to their employees," said Steve Thorne, regional director of the Arthur Andersen Center for Family Business in Chicago.

To obtain a nomination form or more information, call Kellie E. Leeper at (312)915-6490.

Lake County says good-bye to NWSC

Some NWSC teams scramble for affiliation with other conferences, others face independence as NWSC folds

By DAVE SHERMAN
Correspondent

Since the 1950s, Lake County football fans could rely on two things—Bears games on Sundays and a Northwest Suburban Conference high school clash on Saturdays. While the Bears remain in place, the NWSC does not.

After forty years the conference has disbanded, as the former NWSC teams have joined other conferences filling them up, leaving three Lake County schools without a home.

Although the change seems sudden, it actually has been a long time in the making. Grayslake leaving for the Fox Valley Conference was just the final nail in the coffin— orphaning Round Lake, Wauconda, Grant and Johnsburg.

Since the 1970s, which some people refer to as the conference's heyday, teams have come and gone. Before the 80s the NWSC was home to Woodstock, Dundee, Cary-

Grove and McHenry.

By 1983 the conference lost even more members such as Antioch, Warren, Stevenson and Crystal Lake, but they were always able to replace their members with quality teams that sparked fierce rivalries.

The 1980s welcomed multi-time state football champion Marion Central, Marengo and Johnsburg. But, unfortunately, the conference's hold on each school loosened by the end of the decade.

The NWSC was reduced to six schools a few years ago after Lake Zurich left for the Fox Valley and Marengo for the Big Northern, starting the downfall of the NWSC.

While Grayslake takes its lumps getting used to the bigger, more talented FVC, the rest of the members, minus Marian Central, are left to play each other twice and look for schools with gaps in their schedules that these "independents" can fill.

Each of the remaining schools are currently looking for a new conference to call home, but the football tradition for each will continue no matter how long each must travel to find an opponent.

Once members of the mighty Northwest Suburban Conference, Mundelein, Grant, Round Lake, Johnsburg and Wauconda are left to fend for themselves as independents, forging a new road and looking for a new conference.

Many of the schools are scheduled to play teams in Chicago and Wisconsin, with a few games of significance similar to that of former NWSC rivals—waiting for the chance to one day continue their legacy.

Players prepare for football openers

The Fox Valley and North Suburban Conferences ready for battle

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

With the season openers just days away, practices are getting serious at area prep football camps. This was the scene around Grayslake and Warren High practices as the Rams ready for their Valley Conference debut at Prairie Ridge Aug. 30 and Warren hosts Buffalo Grove Aug. 29.

Brett Hill, after playing center last year, is catching passes this year at WTHS in new coach Dave Mohapp's offense.

"It's fun. It's a lot different catching passes from Tim Zorich and Mike Brandow (a 6-4 signal caller). This summer we had a camp and I learned a lot about the offense and why we are doing it. It's exciting. We will be a good team - we have great coaches and two excellent quarterbacks," said Hill.

At Grayslake, three Rams line-backers are back ready to patrol the defense. They are seniors Paul Grace and Neil Schroeder and junior Wes Anderson.

Grace, who calls the plays for the defense, had 44 solo tackles last year. Schroeder, known more for his running, had 16 and Anderson, a mid-season call-up from the sophs had 19.

"Neil has just kept on working since track season," said GCHS coach Dan Dillon.

Schroeder is ready for his role as a featured back for the Rams, who were 5-4 last year with Jason Olson gaining 1,189 yards. Schroeder had 250 yards in 54 attempts.

"Running alongside Jason taught me a lot. Now it is time for me to step up. The attitude of this team has been outstanding. The juniors and the seniors are meshing well with one another," said Schroeder.

A 67-yard run against Wauconda was Schroeder's longest run last year and it came as he returned from an ankle injury.

"We have a good relationship with the juniors," said Grace.

Defensive coordinator Mike Jones plans to quiz his players on the opponents offense each week, so players better be ready for some essay questions.

"The linebacker has the responsibility for knowing the personnel on the other team. We get two films from each team," said Jones.

Opening on a Saturday afternoon (Prairie Ridge does not have lights) gives the Rams a chance to scout future opponents on Friday, so expect to see green-clad coaches all about.

Speaking of the FVC, coach Dillon believes us oldsters may be making more of the conference switch than the players do. "We were spoiled with five-minute drives to Round Lake. Most of our drives will now be 40 minutes. Dundee-Crown and Woodstock will be the farthest," he said. Dundee-Crown is in Carpentersville.

Guiding the Rams defense on the sophomore level and working with the varsity is Mike Warren.

The second-year Rams assistant's last game was the 1996 Rose Bowl as Northwestern lost to USC. He would not trade the NU nor stellar experience at Antioch High for anything.

"I'm excited about this year. The guys are really active and know football. The defensive line has potential to make the plays. I see defensive players as play-makers," said Warren.

Warren said he received much support from Dillon and other coaches his first year.

"Now I feel more useful the more I learn. They have given me an opportunity to contribute," said Warren.

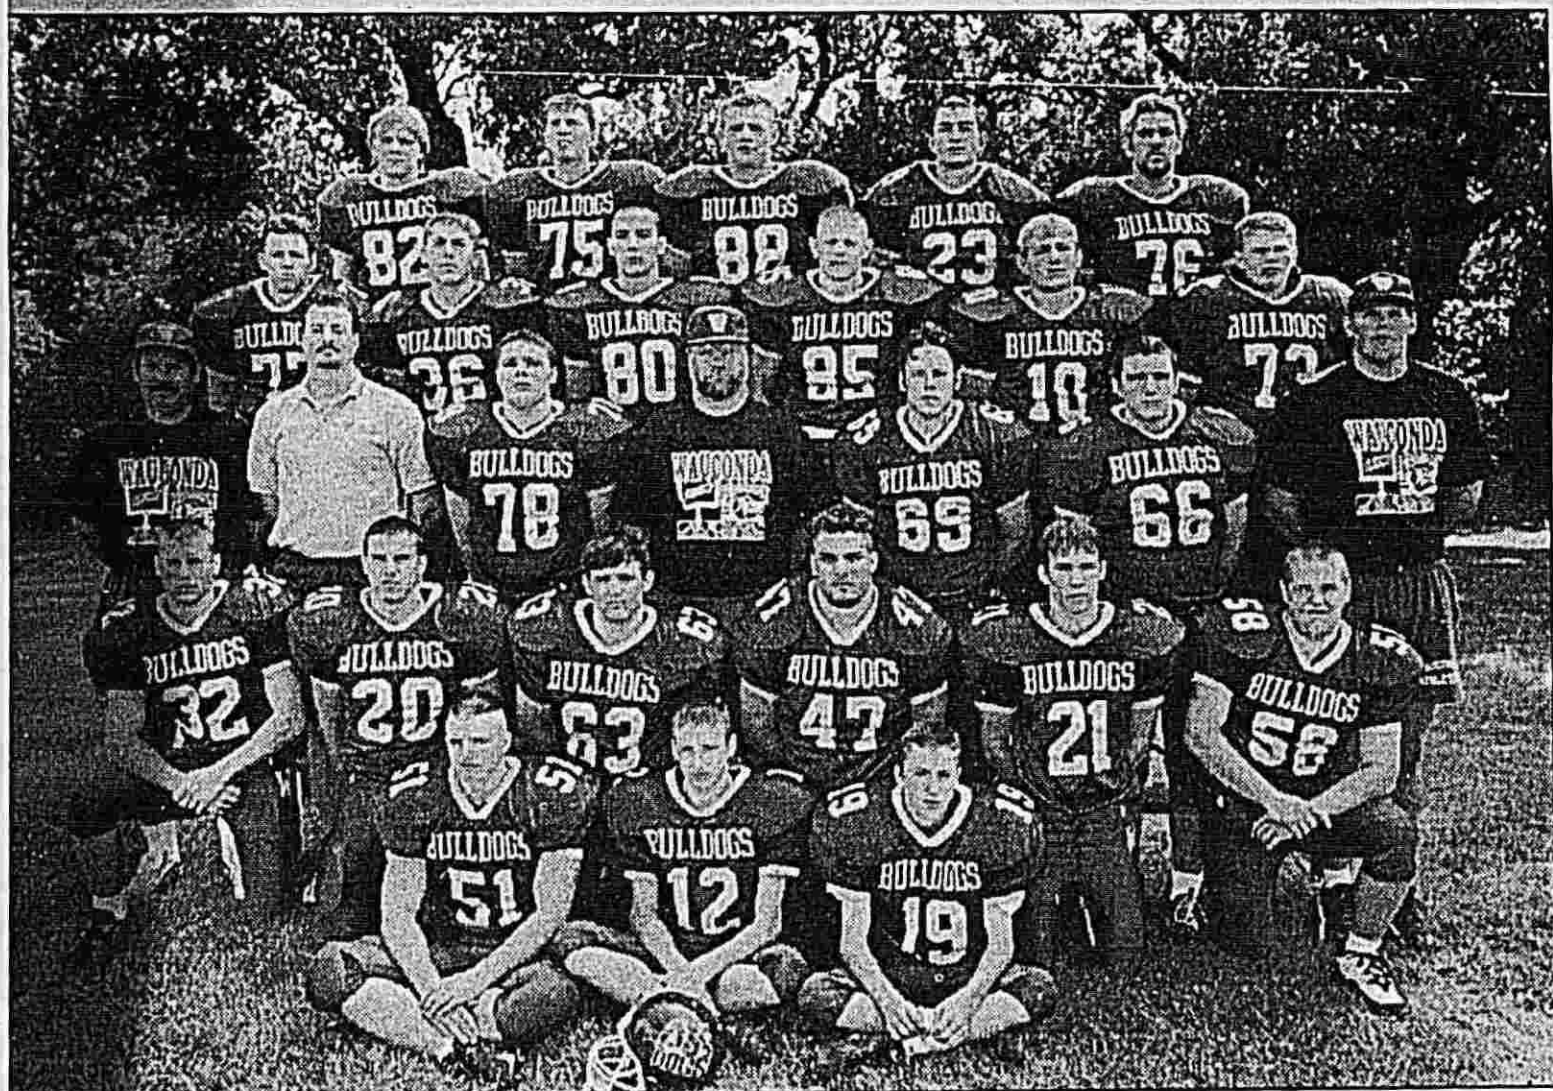

His claim to fame is a long run and two sacks when he beat Orlando Face of Ohio State. Face is now in the pros with the St. Louis Rams.

As for Northwestern this year, Warren will be interested in the outcome this year as the Wildcats battle for the Big-10 title.

"The Wildcats could surprise some people," he said.

At Grant, coach Mark Barczak could start up to four sophomores off an unbeaten freshmen team. Grant was 1-8 last year and the sophomores represent hope. Grant opens in Maple Park against Kaneland Aug. 29.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

This is the time of the year when I am often reminded how educated some people can be and how naive at the same time. I am referring to the dozens of calls I have received in the past 2 weeks from students home for summer break. In as much as that we employ several dozens of students over the summer break, attitudes never seem to stop amusing me. I would like to address some of the situations to you in my column this week, with hopes that perhaps something you hear will put you in tune. I'd like to address a call I personally documented with humor, where an advertisement had been placed in the newspaper for a Lake County Corporation seeking Data Entry and our corporate phone number. Now, the proper way of course to place a call to a company in search of this position, is to professionally present yourself over the phone which he did. I was thoroughly impressed with his upbeat high energy desire for data entry and his pride in his key strokes. The conversation went well and after establishing the salary to be above what he quoted to be his "desirable salary" further stating how this sounds like it is right up his alley, I set up an appointment with this individual for an interview. While in the midst of giving directions he stopped dead in his tracks and asked if he was calling an employment agency, the character became irate and started mouthing off some irritating speech about it being wrong to deceive people by not putting our company name in the paper so we can identify ourselves. I of course allowed this person to continue to embarrass himself and asked him if he was finished. He calmed down long enough to allow me to ask him 2 questions. The first was "tell me, is your difficult attitude, due to the fact that you have not been able to find a job?" he said, "Possibly!"... I then responded with another question to him, and this being, "Are you looking for the position that we just discussed, and you seemed enthralled with?" Again, he responded with "yes, but I don't need to use an employment agency to get one!" I then started laughing out loud as he expressed his disgust and asked me if I found his answer to that funny. "Of course I do," I said to him, "the position that you are applying for, is right here in our corporation!" As the phone became silent, I believe that he realized his ignorance was showing. ...and my final 4 words of the conversation before placing the receiver in its cradle, ended with... "have a nice day!"

I would also like to address the college applicant who treated me to a sparkling interview, that lead to her being employed all summer at an hourly salary she only dreamed of during breaks... Turning to what some may refer to as a "Jekyll and Hyde" persona in her second week of employment because she had not received her first payroll check. You may want to seriously consider not showing that Icky side of you to any employer. It sort of gives it away, that you seem to place blame on everyone but yourself. Once you were informed that the United States Postal Service was holding your mail in an area labeled "ANK", (or "address not known") due to the fact that your name appears no where on or in your mail box. Your response to that was, "Well, how was I supposed to know that I need to have my name in my mail box?... I just moved here..." It was by then, too late to take back any of the attitude. ...Truth is... I think you really believe that someone dealt you a bad hand (so to speak) and that it's someone else's fault for not telling you about mail-boxes... Perhaps there's a course you can pick up next semester in college.

Or perhaps, you may want to refresh your mind on the A, B, C's of employment and how to keep it!

WEEK*"Doomis"

"Doomis" is a male, two year old, brindle colored hound mix. His short coarse coat is accented by white feet, a white face blaze and tail tip. In the prime of his life, Doomis wants a home and a family to love. His slightly droopy, puppy dog sad eyes however do not tell the whole story. This is an alert, bright dog who is responsive and eager to please. Doomis attracts attention and affection and will be a great companion pet. Very playful, Doomis needs a securely fenced yard, where he can safely romp and play to his heart's content. Doomis has been at the shelter since 5/96. That's a long time to be in a cage without a home. Please come and see a wonderful do named Doomis, in Cage 65.

MALLARD*MALLARD

Designed to be built on a narrow lot, the Mallard is a no-nonsense duplex with 1129 square feet of living space on each of its two identical sides. Each unit also includes a one-car garage, with utilities.

Placement of the garages in front of the units allows them to serve an additional function
-- that of a sound buffer. This feature is especially useful if the home is built on a busy street.

When two families live in such close proximity, the overlap in sound environments can sometimes create problems. This floor plan gives a maximum privacy to the bedrooms by placing them on the outer perimeter, as far as possible from the shared wall.

A covered walkway runs alongside the garage to a front door that opens near the small kitchen. Filled with colorful pots of flowers and planter boxes of greenery, this colonnade sends a message of welcome to visitors. Another entrance, through the garage, is handy when parking the car at night, or carrying in groceries.

As in any small residence, counter space in the kitchen is minimal. But the long eating bar offers room for expansion when needed. It also provides partial separation between the kitchen and the daily living area, a combination dining room/living room. Sliding glass doors at the far end brighten the space and allow access to a small patio.

For a study kit of the MALLARD (405-09LP60) or a Dream Home Book, send $10.00, to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Rd. E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424 (Specify plan name & number for kit). For a collection of plan books featuring our most popular home plans, send $20 to Landmark Designs, or call 1-800-562-1151.
